

Serious Error Of TFX Laid To McNamara

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate subcommittee, closing its books on an eight-year probe of the TFX warplane, has accused former Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara of wasting billions of dollars and damaging the nation's defense posture by ignoring warnings about the aircraft.

In a report released Friday, the permanent investigations subcommittee, also accused one top McNamara aide of conflict of interest and said another should have disqualified himself from the TFX contract award.

The report said McNamara and his top aides ignored advice of military and technical experts and arbitrarily awarded the contract to General Dynamics although Boeing submitted plans for a cheaper and better plane.

Common Plane
It also said McNamara was just plain wrong in seeking to develop a common plane for all the services.

After years of mechanical troubles an Air Force version of the TFX—now known as the F111—finally saw limited duty in Vietnam but a Navy model had to be junked.

"This unfortunate and wasteful consequence of an arbitrary and imprudent decision to rush into production with a deficient aircraft is directly attributable to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and his service secretaries," the report said.

"They received clear warnings of impending disaster on a number of occasions over the years," it continued.

Short of Promise
"Nonetheless," said the report, "they plunged ahead with the production of hundreds of aircraft which they knew lacked the capabilities originally promised and originally contracted for."

In the case of the Navy plane alone, the report said, McNamara's failure to heed warnings "cost hundreds of millions of dollars and severely impaired our Navy's defense posture."

The two McNamara aides singled out for special criticism were his deputy secretary, Roswell Gilpatrick, and Secretary of the Navy Fred Korth.

Gilpatrick was a New York lawyer who handled work for General Dynamics before joining the Pentagon. Korth had close ties to General Dynamics officials.

The report said Korth played only a small part in the contract award but still should have disqualified himself.

"Flagrant Conflict"
It said Gilpatrick, on the other hand, was guilty of a "flagrant conflict of interest." It accused him of trying to mislead the subcommittee on the depth of his involvement with General Dynamics.

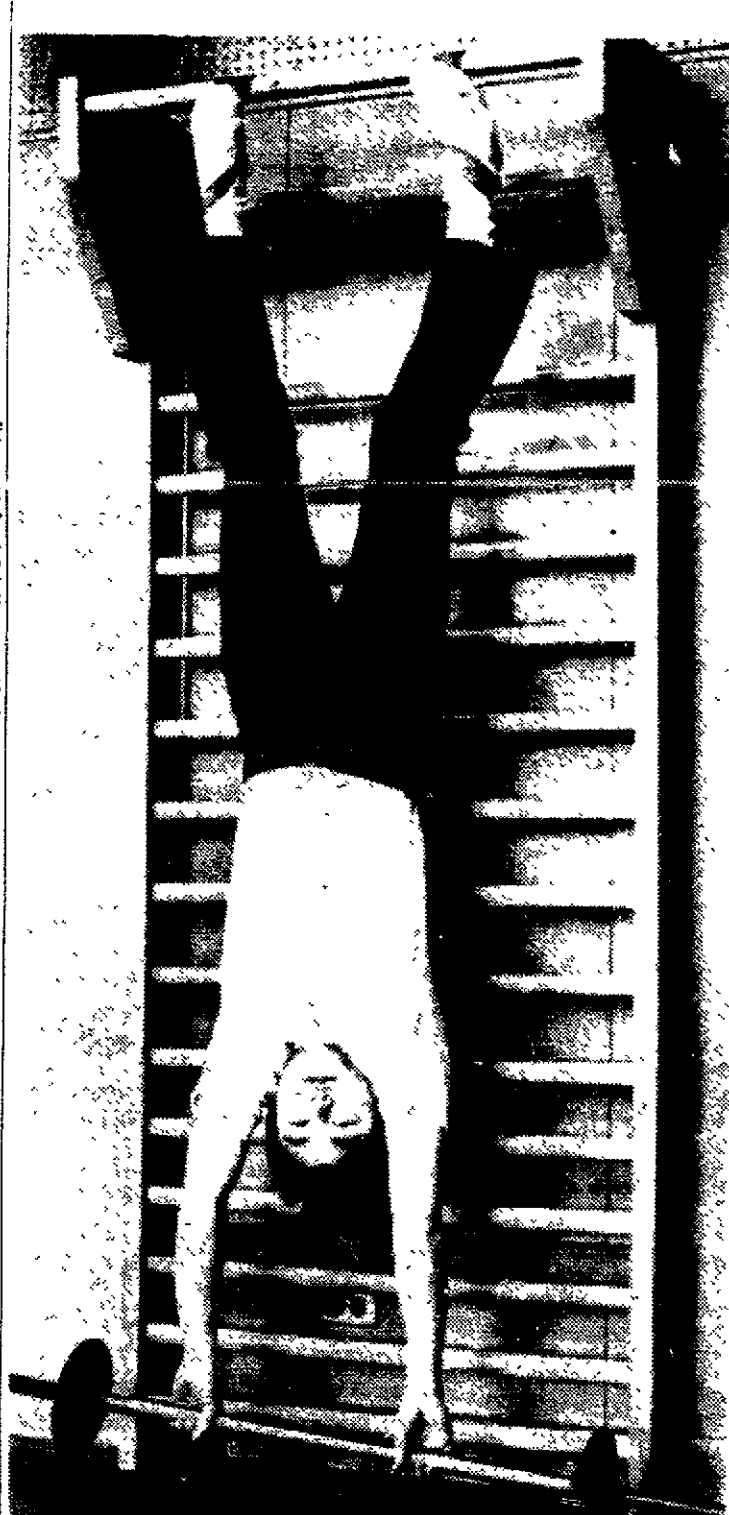

The Justice Department under Robert F. Kennedy investigated Gilpatrick's involvement in 1962 but cleared him of conflict of interest.

A subcommittee staffer said the Senate investigation is over and nothing further is planned in connection with the TFX.

The TFX program originally called for 1,726 planes at a cost of $5.6 billion, averaging $3.4 million per plane. Plans call for the program to end in 1972 with 538 planes which cost $7.9 billion—an average four times the original estimate.

Commenting on the subcommittee report, General Dynamics said, "While the program has been controversial, the net result is an outstanding weapons system with performance and long range, low-altitude operating capabilities unmatched by any other airplane in the world."

The company statement said it is significant that at no time was there any suggestion of wrongdoing by General Dynamics or any of its employees.

Strict Clean Air Bill Sent to Nixon

Cars Must Cut Fumes By 1975

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has been handed a stringent antipollution bill its chief congressional sponsor says promises "clean air to breathe in the 1970s" and critics claim could shut down the auto industry.

The compromise measure, which passed both Houses of Congress by a voice vote Friday, sets Jan. 1, 1975, as the target date for dramatically reducing the level of harmful emissions from new car exhausts.

Auto industry executives say they can't meet the deadline. A House-Senate conference committee included a compromise provision allowing a one-year extension of the deadline if the industry proves it's trying to find the technology to make pollution-free cars.

New Muscle
There was no immediate indication if Nixon would sign the measure which also authorizes $1 billion to fight pollution over the next three years and provides new federal muscle against a variety of private and public polluters.

But before the bill left the Senate there was discussion of a letter from Secretary of Health Elliot L. Richardson which asked the conferees to grant more time for the industries to improve their antipollution technology.

The secretary will be responsible for deciding if the 1975 deadline will be extended.

Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., said the letter represented an effort "to undercut the strong Senate bill" and displayed "the administration's obvious sympathy with the auto makers."

Administration supporters defended the letter as a legitimate effort by Richardson to present his views, but the bill's sponsor Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, said the letter didn't arrive until six weeks after the conference took up the bill.

The measure requires auto makers to cut back by 90 percent the amount of harmful emissions shooting out the tailpipes of 1970 model cars.

Muskie said he realizes "it is the used-car population of this country that causes the problem," but said, "If we are to deal with the used-car problem, we need the new-car deadlines."

Woman Sentenced in Slaying at Mountain

OCONTO (AP)—Mrs. Donna Steinbach, 26, rural Mountain, Friday pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of manslaughter in the slaying of a 33-year-old man and was sentenced to an indeterminate term of not more than five years at Taycheedah.

She was charged in the Nov. 27 shooting death of Kenneth Thyrlon, with whom she allegedly had been living for about a year.

The charge was reduced from second degree murder Friday, whereupon she pleaded guilty.

Snooping by Military

Ex-Spy Sees Possibility Of Mass Civilian Arrests

CHICAGO (AP) — Telling of "snooping, watchdog operations" by Army intelligence men against civilians, a former soldier says he fears there will be mass arrests if the country ever is placed under martial law.

John M. O'Brien, 26, of suburban Evanston said at a news conference Friday he disclosed his role as a spy on politicians and others in Illinois "to make unknowing people aware of a menace that exists."

Despite a statement by Army Secretary Stanley Resor that his story is "without foundation in fact," O'Brien said he would not back down.

Among persons O'Brien said he spied on while a staff sergeant with the 113th Military Intelligence Group in Evanston until June 1970 were Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III; former Gov. Otto Kerner, now a federal judge; and the Rev. Jesse Jackson, head of Operation Breadbasket.

O'Brien said the information gathered went into "subversive files" that were sent to Intelligence Command Center at Ft. Holabird, Md.

"During a period of martial law, this information could have conceivably been used to quell dissent from any individual or organization which possibly may have been opposed to martial law," O'Brien said.

An American Civil Liberties Union lawyer who sat next to

O'Brien during the news conference said he would not discuss classified information because he "respects the integrity of the government" and "because he's not interested in breaking any laws."

O'Brien said he first made his disclosures in letters to Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., head of the Senate Constitutional Rights subcommittee; President Nixon; Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill.; and newsmen. Ervin has said he will call O'Brien as a witness at a hearing into charges of military spying on civilians.

The White House said Thursday it was opposed to domestic spying and that "it will not be done under this administration."

Phosphate Substitute Potentially Harmful

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's announcement that an antipollution phosphate substitute in soap may be harmful has prompted its developer to halt production.

Officials of the Monsanto Co. in St. Louis said Friday there is no more market for the 100 million pounds of the detergent ingredient NTA it makes every year.

Federal officials announced Friday they have persuaded the detergent industry to quit using the chemical—nitrilotriacetic acid.

Phosphate Undesirable
At least 13 wash products contain NTA as a partial substitute for phosphates, officials said. Phosphates are considered undesirable because they promote the rapid growth of algae and cause premature aging in some lakes and streams.

The government acted after a Public Health Service experiment showed that rats and mice fed NTA, mercury and cadmium were 10 times more likely to have stillborn or deformed offspring. The experiment showed that NTA combined with the two metals and carried the combination across the placenta to the embryos.

Pregnant Women
Since both mercury and cadmium occur naturally as pollutants, the findings raised the possibility, officials said, that pregnant women might be harmed.

Exposure to the chemical could come from drinking water contaminated by sewer runoff, they said.

Health officials said there is no present hazard except in some rural areas where septic tanks seep into airless well water supplies. Use of NTA products in those areas should be stopped, they said.

Surgeon General Jesse L. Steinfeld and William D. Ruckelshaus, administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, said in a joint statement there is no evidence so far to indicate anyone has been harmed by the NTA combination.

Prevent Harm
"However, prudence dictates not permitting a situation to develop in which harm may occur to man from the effects of the projected uses of NTA," they said.

Procter and Gamble Co. alone has invested $6.8 million for conversion to NTA in its detergents and has placed orders for $187 million worth of the chemical, company officials said.

President Howard Morgens said in Cincinnati Friday his firm would eliminate NTA from its products, even though it felt there was no danger.

"In the quantities in which we have used NTA in certain of our products," he said, "we are absolutely confident of their safety."

Morgens said the government study used "an extremely high concentration of these metals and NTA, a concentration that does not exist in nature and that has no relevance in our opinion to what could happen in the natural environment."

Army Finds Answer

Safe Germ Disposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army says it has found a safe and non-controversial way to rid itself of all germ warfare stocks more than a year after President Nixon renounced their use. The procedures will provide "absolute safety and security" and cost $12.2 million, the Pentagon said Friday.

Officials said the plan, to be reviewed by federal state and local pollution agencies, will provide for destruction at five installations where the disease-carrying weapons are stored.

None to be Moved
None of the biological agents or toxins will be moved. A shipment of nerve gas carried across the South and dumped off the Atlantic coast several months ago raised storms of protest.

How much gas is to be destroyed was not disclosed, but officials said it would take a year's time beginning in early 1971.

On Nov. 25, 1969, President Nixon said the United States would never use biological weapons. Existing stocks were ordered destroyed and biological research limited "to defensive measures such as immunization and safety measures."

Lt. Col. Gerald G. Watson, in charge of the destruction program, told newsmen the weapons will be burned at temperatures as high as 1,000 degrees, sterilized, tested and resterilized.

Then the remaining waste will be spread into the soil on the grounds of the five installations and seeded with grass.

The materials will be destroyed at Dugway Proving Grounds in Utah; Pine Bluff, Ark.; Rocky Mountain Arsenal, Denver, Colo.; Ft. Detrick, Md.; and Beale Air Force Base, Calif.

Opportunity Is Top Priority for Children

By MARGARET SCHERF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House Conference on Children, in setting its No. 1 goal, has asked President Nixon to "reorder national priorities" to "provide opportunities for every child to learn, grow and live creatively."

Only 52 per cent of the 4,000 delegates voted Friday in the windup of a disension-ridden conclave some participants claimed was designed to prevent significant demands being made on the Nixon administration.

In voting—climax to a week of discussions—each delegate was asked by conference chairman Stephen Hess to check six of 24 listed recommendations he considered of highest priority. Nixon has promised to review the recommendations.

Redesign Education
The second and third recommendations read like this:

—"Redesign education to achieve individualized, humanized, child-centered learning. We support proposed National Institute of Education with this goal."

—"Establishment of citizen community action groups to implement the multitude of excellent recommendations which have evolved out of this White House Conference on Children."

Resolutions demanding an end to the war in Vietnam, curtailment of the supersonic transport plane and creation of programs to feed the hungry were passed at a breakaway session Thursday attended by more than a fourth of the delegates.

Organizers of the rump session said the conference schedule provided no forum at which all delegates could speak up on such "issues of overriding concern" as the war and curtailment of spending for social services.

Hess turned down their demands for a plenary session, saying it would serve no purpose and could turn into a shouting match.

The conference, called every 10 years by the president, was attended by educators, lawyers, physicians, social scientists and administrators.

Irate Maddox Stalks Off Cavett Show

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia termed himself a "segregationist" Friday night—then stalked angrily out of the Dick Cavett television show over the use of the word "bigot" to describe his supporters.

The eruption came after another guest, black actor former pro football star Jim Brown, asked Maddox if he had encountered "any trouble with the white bigots because of all the things you did for blacks."

A commercial break intervened before the governor could answer. When the show resumed, Cavett picked up the question, but phrased it: "Mr. Brown was asking whether any of your white admirers..."

Maddox angrily termed this "another example of how words are twisted against me" and demanded an apology "to the people of Georgia."

Cavett conceded he had inadvertently confused his words and said: "If I called any of your admirers bigots who are not bigots, I apologize."

Refusing to accept this, the governor walked out. During an ensuing break, Cavett ran after him in the street, but the governor refused to return.

Earlier in the show, Maddox had said: "I am a segregationist. By that, I mean a person who has enough racial pride and wants to preserve it. A racist is one who doesn't care..."

The program is carried by WLWK — TV, Channel 11, Green Bay.

Comeback Marred

Xavier Nips St. John in Last Seconds

BY JIM HARP
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

LITTLE CHUTE — A disputed call in the closing seconds of the game marred a monumental comeback by Little Chute St. John and sparked Appleton Xavier to a 69-64 Fox Valley Catholic Conference victory in a wild basketball game here Friday night.

The heart-thumper between the Fox Cities rivals ended up with several players from both teams trading punches when a foul was called with two seconds left and a mele between a group of fans broke out as the final horn sounded.

St. John trailed by 13 points at 63-50 with 3:20 left to play and it appeared that the Hawks were coasting in with their second conference victory in easy fashion.

Not finished

However, the Dutchmen were not finished and roared from behind to pour through the next 14 points while limiting the Hawks to one free throw. A steal and layup by Joe Wegand with 36 seconds remaining tied the game at 64-64 and the St. John gym rattled as the fans went wild with excitement.

The Hawks got the ball as far as the centerline when it appeared that St. John's Mike Casey had tied up Joe DeNoble of Xavier. One official clearly signalled for a jump ball, but the other called a foul on Mike Lacy who was close to the action. With 30 seconds showing, DeNoble calmly dropped in both free throws to put the Hawks ahead.

St. John missed on a shot from the field and as Mark Collar brought the ball upcourt he was intentionally fouled and added two more tosses to put Xavier four ahead.

When Collar was fouled with 2 seconds remaining he made one of two to give the Hawks the final margin of five points.

Hit Free Throws

Accuracy at the free throw line paid off for Xavier as the Hawks hit 21 of 28 charity tosses. St. John had trouble, dropping in just 18 while missing 11 free throws.

The officials tooted a total of 40 fouls, 22 on the Dutchmen who lost three starters via fouls and 18 on the Hawks who lost one player. Most violations were called from the mid-court area as it was evident that the officials were having trouble keeping up the fast pace both teams were setting.

Mark Hammen, who picked up three fouls quickly in the first period and sat out most of the initial half, paced the Dutchmen by hitting 18 markers in the last two periods. He finished with a total of 20 for the game, his best performance of the season. Steve Siebers had 12 and Jeff Jensen 11.

O'Dell Scores 21

For the Hawks, O'Dell set the pace with 21 points on nine buckets and three of five from the line. Shifty guard, Jeff Harris had 17 for Xavier and did an excellent job of passing to teammates and setting up scores. Collar added 11 and DeNoble had nine, all in the second half as Coach Jerry Schmidt of Xavier kept DeNoble on the bench in the first two periods.

The game was tied five times in the first half before Xavier spurred just before the intermission and scored the last seven points to take a 28-23 advantage to the dressing room.

St. John had a 20-19 scoring edge in the third period to cut the margin to 47-43 and then the Hawks proceeded to move out in front behind the shooting of Harris and O'Dell. Eight straight points: four each by DeNoble and O'Dell put the Hawks in front by the 13 points before the Dutchmen made their last ditch effort.

ST. JOHN (14-20-21-44) Wegand 4 1/2; Lacy 3 3/5; Hammen 8 4 3/5; Siebers 4 2 2; Casey 0 1 1/2; J. Jensen 5 5/7; T. Jensen 1 0 1. Totals 25-18-27. FTM - 11.

Bears Win in Overtime, 61-53

Bonduel Defeats Mustangs

BY RON WITT
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

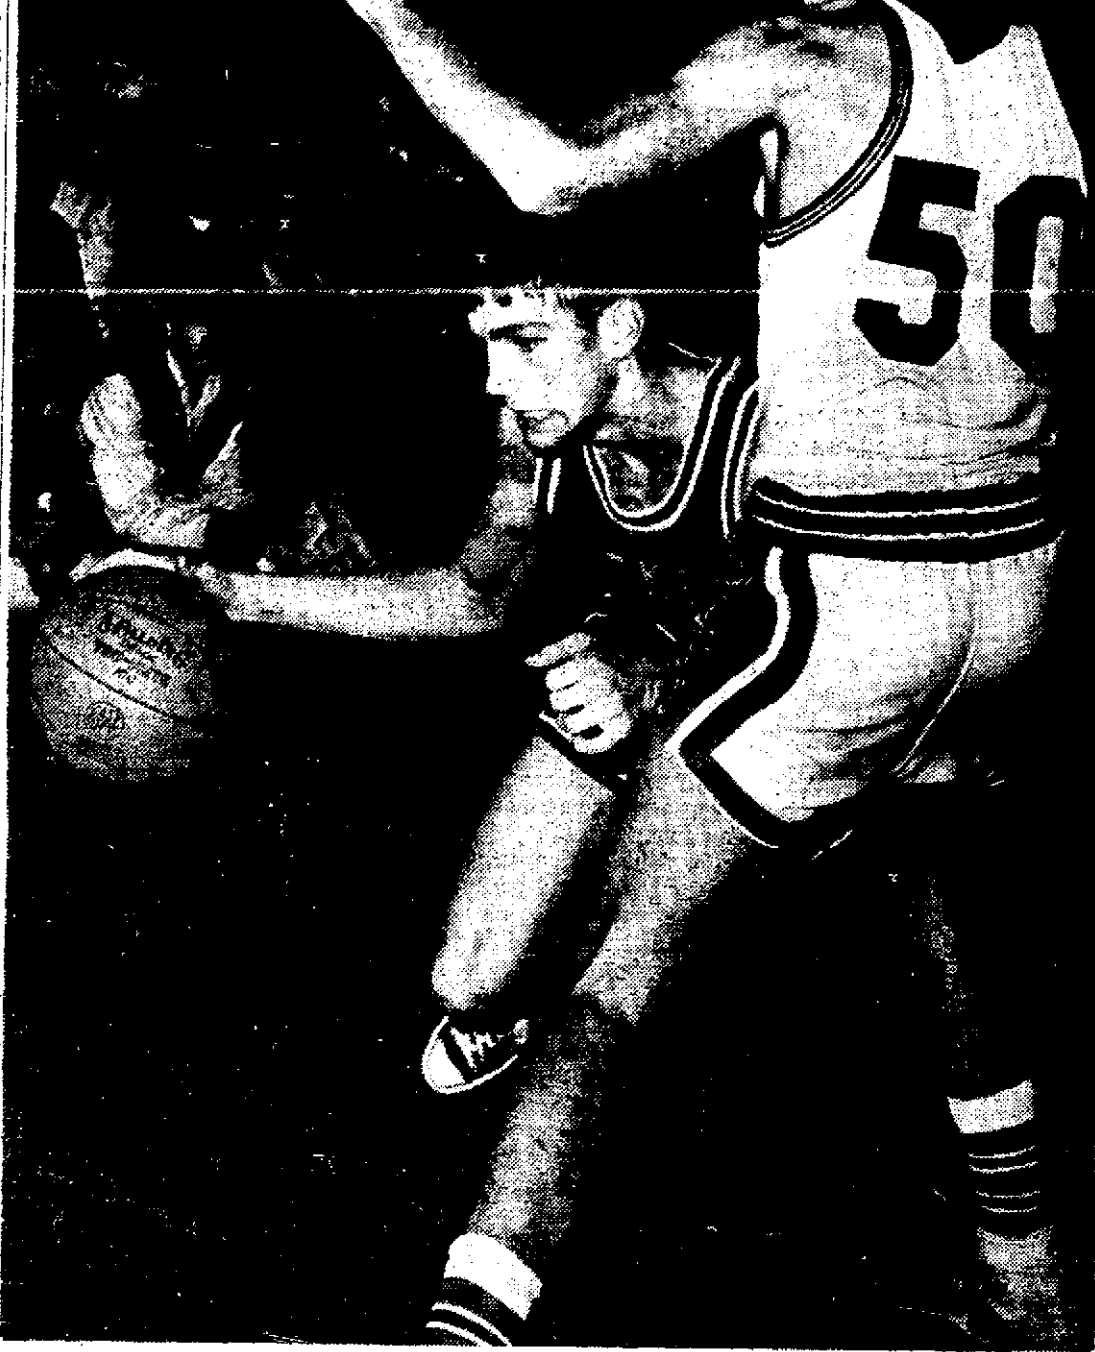

LITTLE CHUTE — The Bonduel Bears received the scare of their conference season, but clutch play by Jim Reinke, Mike Boettcher and Mike Eisch carried the Bears to a 61-53 overtime victory over Little Chute here Friday night.

Reinke swished five of six free throw attempts. Boettcher tossed in two buckets and Eisch added one as the Bears outscored the Mustangs 11-3, in the overtime session after the two clubs had deadlocked, 50-50.

In other CWC results, Jim Hass sank a 35-foot shot at the buzzer to lift Manawa past Little Chute, 69-68, and Marlon had a little trouble disposing of Shiocton, 77-52.

By winning the key tilt, Bonduel hikes its Central Wisconsin Conference slate to 5-0 for the year, while Little Chute slips to 3-2.

Both the Bears and Mustangs had plenty of opportunities to win in regulation play, but turnovers, offensive fouls and missed baskets plagued the two quietists down the stretch.

Neenah's John Pierce dribbles the ball just before he fired at the basket in the fading seconds of Friday night's Fox Valley Association game at Appleton. West. Pierce's shot missed, but Jim Crist sank the rebound for a 46-44 victory. No. 50 is Terror defender Carl Joosten.

Scores 19 in Second Half

Milhaupt Sparks Patriots 78 - 60 Victory Over Jays

BY GEORGE MANCOSKY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MENASHA — Nick Milhaupt, benched with three fouls in the second period, scored 19 points in the second half to spark Appleton East High School to a 78-60 Fox Valley Association triumph over Menasha Friday night.

The Patriots, now 2-3 in FVA play, held a 43-36 margin at halftime, and only extended their lead by a one point (54-46) after three quarters but collected the first four baskets of the final stanza enroute to a 24-point frame.

Milhaupt pumped in nine of 11 points accumulated by the visitors in the third quarter and accounted for five baskets in the fourth, including three in the early skein.

Menasha couldn't get its offense to produce anything in the early minutes of the last quarter, failing on its first seven field goal attempts.

In fact, after a good-shooting first half, which produced 10 baskets in 19 attempts, the hosts only were able to find the nets nine times in 44 tries in the last two sessions, closing with 19 of 63. East's chart showed 27 successes in 66 shots.

The Patriots had threatened to tuck away the verdict as early as the second period when, with Menasha in front, 22-19, they banged in 12 straight points to go up by nine.

The hosts battled back to within four markers (35-31) but East's Jim Williams coined a basket and two free throws and they never were able to bring the margin under five points the rest of the way.

Frequent Fouls

Play was stopped frequently by the officials' shrill whistles, signaling personal fouls. In all, the Patriots stepped up the free throw line 31 times and marked good percentage by sinking 24. Thirty five gratis throws were attempted by the Twin Cities, 22 falling through.

The big men were especially hit hard with Dan Kohl; Williams and Milhaupt of East and Paul Wisniewski and Mark Koerner of Menasha all getting three fouls in the first half.

The only boy to depart with five was Pete Haas, who left with 4:13 to play and with 21 points to his credit. Haas carried a big chunk of the Patriots' offensive load in the first half with 17 points, including 10 in the second period.

Non-starters Williams of East and the Jays' Bill Van Lieshout did a good job filling in for the starters and contributed 14 and eight points, respectively. Van Lieshout rebounded well.

Bluejay scoring honors went to sophomore Wisniewski with 14 points. Koerner had 13 and Chris Speidel 11.

Although at a height disadvantage, the losers were credited with a 44-38 edge in rebounding.

Fortunately for all concerned, the verdict wasn't close at the end because the scoreboard clock developed a malfunction just before game time and time was run off on a stop watch at the scoring table.

Heppler, Whitney Set Pace

Oshkosh Upsets Ghost '5'

BY ROD GNERLICH

OSHKOSH — The Oshkosh Indians were 0-3 in the Fox Valley Association Friday before night's game with Kaukauna, you'd never get the Ghosts to believe it. The Indians came up with their best effort of the season to upset Kaukauna, 74-54.

Three critical factors were the keys to the Indian win. One, the Indians were able to control the boards and cracked through the Kaukauna press repeatedly for easy layups. Two — perhaps the most important factor — (now 2-2 in the FVA) Kaukauna shot only 18 per cent from the floor in the second half. Three, the Indians sank 22 free throws to Kaukauna's six.

Ron Heppler and Craig Whitney played courageous ball. Heppler, hampered by a knee injury, played all but the last minute of the game and scored 26 points. Whitney, a doubtful starter before the game, scored 15 points, many on shots that left fans waiting for his badly sprained ankle to buckle. He left the game limping once but quickly returned when the Ghosts closed the gap. John Netzer, the key man in breaking that press, scored 17.

Tallies 27 Points

Kaukauna sharpshooter Leon Franzke led all scorers, with 27 points, but he was about the only Ghost with a hot hand.

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN

The Neenah Shattuck and Appleton West basketball thrill makers worked from a familiar script in Seims gym Friday night but came up with a new ending.

Jim Crist, a 6-foot junior, poured in a rebound with one second remaining to give Neenah a pulsating 46-44 victory and enable the Rockets to avenge a 58-57 loss nine months ago.

In that game, last March, the now-graduated Scott Hanson connected in the final four seconds to give the Terrors the victory and the state tournament title.

Crist, whose only two baskets in last night's game were scored in the payoff period, shared honors in a hero-laden Rocket lineup. Ed Hawley scored a game-tying basket with only 1 minute, 56 seconds left. . . John Pierce stole the ball, with 32 seconds left to break up a Terror stall and enable the Rockets to set up for a final shot. . . Bill Schultz and Rick Matson were the scoring leaders and the heavy-duty men under the boards.

14 Lead Exchanges

In the thrilling defensive game that was tied nine times and saw the lead change hands 14 times, AHS-W took its final lead on a baseline jumper by Ike Chestnut with 2:31 left to play. That moved West ahead, 43-42. Sophomore Carl Joosten made one of two free throw attempts 13 seconds later to move the Terrors two points ahead.

But, Neenah, which was out-rebounded, 29-24, unofficially, was destined to score the games efforts. Hawley followed up his own missed shot with 1:56 to go, and plunked it through for a 44-all tie, the uproar from the capacity crowd became a crescendo.

West, intent on holding the ball for the last shot, did maintain control for 80 seconds. Then the scrappy Pierce broke it up to set the stage for Neenah's decisive action.

"We had set a time limit for trying a shot," said Coach Ron Emerson later, "but we had no intention of shooting from the corner." However, with time running out (about four seconds left), Pierce did shoot from the right corner. The ball bounced off the rim. . . Crist gobbled it up and the rest became part of the remarkable Rocket-Terror history.

'Something Else'

"This game was something else," continued the Neenah coach, as he praised the play of both teams. "The key to victory was holding (Rich) Reitzner to seven points and (Tim) Moriarty to 10," Emerson noted.

Reitzner and Moriarty — an awesome 1-2 punch for more than two seasons — were held to their lowest combined total. Tim sank four of six field shots but was kept outside much of the time by the Rockets' 1-3-1 zone. Reitzner had more field attempts — 14 — but could sink only three.

West Coach Dick Emanuel called it "a tremendous basketball game dominated by tight-fisted defenses." He lauded the excellent balance of the Neenah team and the poise of his own unit, which had a couple of physical problems. Starter Rick Luebhen, who had the flu most of the week, played only a few minutes. Top reserve Jack Anderson, who has a back ailment, didn't suit up.

The victory was the fourth straight for Fox Valley Association-leading Neenah. The unbeaten Rockets have now won seven over all. As Emerson evened his coaching rivalry with Emanuel, at two wins apiece, the Rockets boosted their record to 31 wins in the last 32 starts.

The Terrors saw their FVA record drop to 2-2, and their all-games standard is now 5-2. The loss was only their second in the last 33 games.

The principal consolation reaped by the Terrors was their holding the sizzling Rockets 34 points below their 80-point FVA scoring average.

West posted a 1-basket edge — 17 to 16 — but the Rockets tossed in 14 of 22 from the free throw line, compared to the Terrors' 10-for-15.

Both teams made effective use of sagging tactics on defense and helped turn the offenses comparatively conservative. AHS-W sank 17 of 42, for 40.5 per cent. Neenah made good on 16 of 45, for a 35.6 pace.

Schultz, who had more penetration success than any one else, flipped in seven of 13 floor shots enroute to a 16-point night. Matson equalled Schultz' total, which included eight free throws — in just nine attempts.

Ike Chestnut, on a 5-for-15 floor rate, wound up with 12 points to pace the Terrors. He was the rebound leader, with 12. Moriarty was the only other scorer in double figures.

Biggest Margin

Neenah got off to a 7-2 lead — which represented the biggest margin either team enjoyed in the game. The Rockets' spread was cut to one point (15-14) at the end of the first quarter.

Moriarty scored the first five points of the second period, and the Terrors opened a 19-15 lead. Neenah, however, took a 27-25 lead into the dressing room, as Hawley sank a rebound with four seconds left in the half.

West held the Rockets to six points in the third period and carried a 35-33 lead into the final stanza. With 4:48 left in the game, West opened a 4-point lead (40-36), but had three players — Reitzner, Chestnut and Joosten — in trouble, with four fouls apiece.

Two nifty scoring maneuvers by Schultz enabled NHS to turn a 41-38 deficit into a 42-41 lead with three minutes remaining. The Terrors went back ahead by two, but their lead was to prove transitory, as the Hawley-Pierce-Crist trio took over in the final tension-packed two minutes.

NEENAH (15-12-13 — 46) Schultz 7 2 1; Hawley 20 2; Matson 4 8 4; Crist 20 3; Pierce 0 2 1; Loker 0 2 0; Rodgers 1 0 1. Totals 16 17 12. FTM 8.

Packers Big Underdog for Lions' Contest

Injury-Riddled Green Bay Winds Up Season Sunday

DETROIT (AP) — The Green Bay Packers end their National Football Conference injury-riddled season Sunday against the Detroit Lions.

The Packers, with six victories against seven losses, are underdogs to the Lions, who trounced them 40-0 in the campaign opener and are primed for an effort which could take them to the Super Bowl playoffs.

"The Lions are the best team in the league," Packer coach Phil Bengtson said. "Just look at what they've done."

He was referring to Detroit's 9-4 record which includes triumphs over San Francisco, Oakland, St. Louis and Los Angeles.

Suffering Physically

The Packers are suffering physically. Rookie Ken Ellis, a swift cornerback, won't see action Sunday; back Dave Hampton and tackle Dick Himes may not play and cornerback Bob Jeter will maneuver with bruised ribs.

Quarterback Bart Starr, who took a physical beating in last Sunday's loss at Chicago, carries the Green Bay hopes.

Other Packer regulars who will not play in the campaign windup include tackle Rich Moore and linebacker Dave Robinson.

Bengtson said it was unlikely he will activate back Travis Williams, troubled all season with ankle injuries and removed from the active list last month.

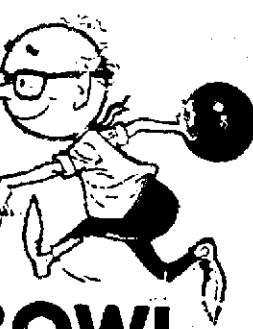

Jim Grabowski is a likely starter in the backfield along with Donny Anderson.

Papermakers Down Racine Park, 68-62

BY ED VAN BEER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

KIMBERLY — Racine Park came a long way north on a miserable night only to be defeated by the quick-handed Papermakers 68-62 here Friday night.

The losers outscored Kimberly 11-2 in the final two minutes of play, but an early lead built up by the winners was too much to overcome. Despite being dwarfed by the majority of the Racine Panthers, the winners utilized quickness and adept ball handling to overcome the height advantage.

Mike Van Beek and Jim Rooyackers both battled fiercely for rebounds as well as contributing timely buckets to the winning effort. Several Papermakers found themselves in foul trouble early, but Bill Uelman and Tim Valentyn came off the bench and hit for key points.

Early lead

Racine Park jumped off to an early lead and was in command for the first five minutes of the game on some nice outside shooting by Dan Sebic and Hayes McNeal. Three baskets by Stan Swokowski, a free throw by Tom Aerts and two swishers by Van Beek enabled Kimberly to move to an 11-9 advantage with about three points remaining in the first period and thereafter they never trailed.

Kimberly held a 17-14 advantage at the end of the first period, four free throws to one for the winners kept the Panthers within striking distance. An early spurt in the second frame pulled Racine to within 1-point at 19-18, but Don Uelman hit two quick baskets to move Kimberly to a 5-point advantage.

In the closing minutes of the second quarter, Don Uelman hit two baskets and Aerts scored on a drive-in to boost Kimberly to a 37-28 halftime lead.

Kimberly's lead varied from five to 13 points in the third frame which found them leading 54-43 going into the final eight minutes. The winners began working the ball around, using up time and waiting for the sure shot in the final period which enabled them to build up a 15-point advantage on some fine shooting by Bill Uelman, Rooyackers and Van Beek.

Full Court Press

Racine Park began using a full court press late in the game, took advantage of their tall center Gary Cole and began to whittle away at the Kimberly lead, but ultimately it was the ball handling of the Papermakers which enabled them to pull off the win.

Don Uelman led Kimberly with 17 points while Rooyackers contributed 14. Cole paced all scorers, hitting 26 points on eight baskets and 10 of 17 free throws. Sobic finished with 12 for the losers.

Bonduel '5' Tops Mustangs

referees and the technical was called.

Eisch missed the free throw, but then Bonduel took advantage of getting the ball at mid-court as Mike Boettcher drove in from the left side for the important go-ahead bucket.

Gary Van Handel's gift toss brought Little Chute back to within 52-51, but Eisch retaliated from short range. With 42 seconds left, the Mustangs' backbreaker came when Jim Reinke made one free throw, missed the second and Mike Boettcher threw in the rebound. With the score 57-51, the game was essentially over, but Reinke was to add four more free throws in as many tries. Dick Hackel tallied the Mustangs' lone bucket of the overtime on a last-second shot.

Reinke's total of 19 points paced Bonduel 17, while Mike Boettcher hit 17 and Eisch 13. Hackel had 16, Gary Van Handel 14, and Steve Mollen 12 for the Mustangs.

The game-winning shot by Hass came after Manawa had called timeout with just two seconds remaining.

With four seconds remaining, Wautoma had apparently won the game when Jeff Raatz hit a jump shot, was fouled on the play, and connected on the free throw that put the Hornets up, 56-67.

Four minutes into the third period, Manawa had held a 13-point advantage and appeared to have the game under control. But the Hornets came back to range within three points at 49-46 by the close of the period.

Hass finished with 17 points, but Wolve honors went to Kent Gehrkke with 24, and Dave Squires added 12. Raatz had 27 for Wautoma to lead all scorers.

Marion's height was too much for Shiocton as the Mustangs grabbed a 24-15 lead at the quarter and were never in danger. By the end of the third period, Marion had constructed a 62-37 bulge.

Goodwin Peterson poured through 28 points for the winners, while Mike Daley contributed 19 and Kent Brandenburg had 10. Daley also had 16 rebounds as Marion controlled the boards, 43-29.

Jeff Johnson's 12 points paced Shiocton, while Russ Barker netted 11 and Dick Clausen and Mark Johnson swished 10 apiece.

Valders increased its Olympian Conference lead to two games by defeating Hilbert, 57-43, Friday.

Other results saw Freedom upset Reedsville, 84-68; Denmark edge Brillion, 56-54, and Mishicot roll over Wrightstown, 69-33.

Reedsville had gone into Friday's action trailing by one game, but the highly touted Freedom Irish came to life and Joe Vandenberg and Tony Brockman combined for 55 points to spark the victory.

Scott Schultz garnered scoring honors for the night as he tossed in 36 points for Reedsville, hiking his season total to 99.

The Panthers dropped behind, 18-8, after the first period, trailed, 37-24, at the intermission and after making a comeback bid in the third stanza saw their hopes dashed as the Irish tallied 29 in the fourth quarter.

Vandenberg ended with 28 points and Brockman 25. Bob Garvey added 14 and Gary Hooyman 12 for the winners.

Valders Streaks

Valders roared to its fifth straight victory by defeating Hilbert, another league challenger. Hilbert never led in the game as Valders took an 18-6 first period lead.

Mishicot stamped to a 45-15 halftime advantage and coasted the rest of the way against undermanned Wrightstown. The hapless Tigers added the Mishicot effort by committing 31 turnovers and being out rebounded 44-24.

The Indians were paced by 6-5 Ray Berres' 15 points. Paul

History Professor at OSU Co-Authors 2nd Book on Henry Wallace

'Prophet in Politics' Latest Work by Dr. F. E. Schapsmeier, Twin Brother

OSHKOSH — Whether the political career of Henry A. Wallace, wartime vice president and unsuccessful candidate for President in 1948, was a triumph or a tragedy is explored

Schapsmeier

In a recently published book co-authored by a Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh professor.

"Prophet in Politics: Henry A. Wallace and the War Years, 1940-1965" is the third book written by Dr. Frederick H. Schapsmeier, WSU — O history professor, and his twin brother, Dr. Edward Schapsmeier of Illinois State University at Normal, Ill.

Their latest book, published this month by Iowa State University Press, is a sequel to "Henry A. Wallace of Iowa: the Agrarian Years, 1910-1940" written by the Schapsmeier twins and published in 1969.

Third on Lippmann

Their third book, "Walter Lippmann: Philosopher-Journalist," was published by Public Affairs Press of Washington, D.C., in September of 1969.

Their second volume on Wallace begins in 1940 when the former secretary of agriculture was personally selected by President Franklin D. Roosevelt to be his vice presidential running mate. During the early post-inaugural years Roosevelt turned him into a working vice president by calling upon Wallace to assist in war mobilization and to aid the war effort itself.

Linus Pauling, two-time Nobel Prize winner, in 1954 in chemistry and in 1960 in peace, in his forward to the book by the Schapsmeier twins, calls the book "an engrossing account of Wallace's place in world history during 1940-1965, a period which may well be considered by future historians as the most critical and decisive in the history of the world."

Described Future

At the Democratic convention in 1944 Wallace described the kind of world he foresaw — and inadvertently gave the world notice of the kind of man he was. He spoke of a "world from which segregation and discrimination based upon race, color, sex or religion would be abolished."

In the words of the authors, "Wallace used his war assignments to preach the need for continued progress toward building a world where war and want were to be forever abolished. His soaring idealism inspired many and troubled others. Were his millennial expectations beyond mankind's ability to achieve? A prophet in politics, Wallace did not think so."

"Prophet in Politics" traces Wallace's idealistic influences and involvements with the national war effort. The authors examine his work with the Board of Economic Warfare and his idealism, ideology and ideas for the postwar world.

Both being professors of history, the Schapsmeier twins go into detail on Wallace's era as goodwill ambassador to Latin America and examine the triumph of a popular diplomacy. They describe the Wallace-Jones clash, Wallace's trips to Soviet Russia and his less effective mission to China.

Liberal Ideas

The book explains Wallace's liberal plans for postwar prosperity and worldwide reforms, as well as the Cabinet crisis of 1946 during which Wallace opposed with vehemence the conduct of the Cold War and tilted at U.S. policy in the United Nations.

His editorship of "The New Republic" is analyzed in "Prophet in Politics" as well as his use of this liberal magazine as a vehicle for his own political views. The final years of Wallace's involvement in the political arena is examined by the Schapsmeiers, including the Presidential campaign of 1948 and Wallace's Progressive Party ticket, and the Korean War influences.

Villified by anti-Communist hysteria, slandered by those who could not accept his point of view, Wallace retired to his New York estate to make his final contributions as an agricultural scientist.

The WSU-O history professor and his twin brother leave it up to the reader to judge for himself whether the political career of Wallace was a triumph or tragedy.

Sports Show On Skating, Tobogganing

BY TV SCOUT

4:30 — Channels 11-9 — Wide World of Sports travels to Ljubljana, Yugoslavia, for the World Figure Skating Championships, with Dick Button describing the action, then takes in the International Toboggan Championships in St. Moritz, where Jim McKay is on hand.

6:30-7:30 — Channels 2-7 — Mission: Impossible's team is confronted with a timely dilemma — what to do about political hostages. Paris (Leonard Nimoy) is masquerading as a businessman as bait, and the bait is swallowed. He's held hostage in one of those mythical Latin American countries, where his captors demand the release of three of their imprisoned comrades or they'll kill him.

6:30-7:30 — Channel 5 — The Andy Williams Show does its Christmas thing, with wives, children, brothers and parents on hand to help with the holiday spirit. One curious thing — Andy and Claudine are legally separated, yet she participates, although they carefully shot it so it isn't embarrassing to either one. The show has Christmas songs and stories, and Capt. Kangaroo (Bob Keeshan) and rubber-faced Charlie Callas join the Williamses.

7:30-8 — Channel 5 — It's Christmas for the police, too, and Adam-12 shows us how two officers — Martin Milner and Kent McCord — spend Christmas Eve. They have to arrest Santa Claus, cover a traffic fatality, book a shoplifter and, most importantly, search for a missing child.

7:30-8:30 — Channels 11-9 — What would Christmas be without a special hour from The Lawrence Welk Show. All the regulars help with the Welk in ring, and the children and grandchildren of the cast join the fun.

8:30-9 — Channels 2-7 — Poor Mary has to work on Christmas Eve, as The Mary Tyler Moore Show celebrates its first Holiday. Mary reluctantly switches with a family man, which means she's all alone at the station. But her friends rally to her lonesome support.

8:30-9:30 — Channels 11-9 — There's a homicidal maniac loose, which is really The Most Deadly Game. He seems to be killing fashion models, so Vanessa (Yvette Mimieux) is set up as bait — and she's caught. Among the suspects are three ex-series stars — Frank Converse, of NYPD; Barbara Hale, of Perry Mason; and Bill Smith, of Laredo.

9-10 — Channels 2-7 — Manix' client-of-the-week is Katherine Justice, who comes back from Hong Kong with a tale of her husband committing suicide and strange Oriental gentlemen following her. Several more deaths occur and the whole thing gets very involved with Asian black market operations. Of note here is the appearance of Gloria Grahame, who doesn't work much these days, as an old-time performer who holds a key to the mystery.

A theft suspect, who Appleton detectives charge took between $800 and $900 from the downtown clothing store where he once worked, pleaded innocent to the felony Wednesday in Circuit Court. A hearing will be held Dec. 28 to determine if statements given to the police by James Wallace, 20, 437 1/2 First St., Menasha, are voluntary. He supposedly pocketed the money when he worked at W. A. Close, Inc., 200 E. College Ave., between April and Nov. 4.

KAUKAUNA—Sister Ambrosine, St. Bernadette's parish, 1213 S. Matthias St., Appleton, suffered head and leg injuries and Mrs. Marie Van Dyke, 317 Dixon St., Kaukauna, underwent injuries in a two-car accident at Crooks Avenue and Seventeenth Street about 7:35 p.m. Wednesday.

According to police, a car driven by David Van Wychem, 19, 141 Garfield St., slowed prior to pulling to the side of the road to pick up a friend when his vehicle was struck from behind by a car driven by Mrs. Van Dyke. Sister Ambrosine was a passenger in the vehicle.

The nun was taken to Kaukauna Community Hospital in the city ambulance and Mrs. Van Dyke, who was cited for following too closely, was transported by squad car to the hospital.

FREEDOM—Although their car was split in half, two young men suffered only minor injuries in an accident about 10 p.m. Friday three miles north of here on Outagamie County Trunk E. County police said Dale A. Webster, 22, route 2, West DePerre, was southbound when he lost control of his car which went into a ditch and struck two trees. Webster suffered a minor cut and Bill Danforth, 19, route 1, Pulaski, sustained a bruised knee.

KIMBERLY—The fire alarm has been sounded in the village this week as part of testing, according to Fire Chief William Van Hout. Volunteer firemen will be notified when the tests are completed, and are cautioned not to make unnecessary runs to the station when they hear the alarm.

GREENVILLE—A two-car accident about 5:15 a.m. today on U. S. 45, near here sent four persons to Appleton Memorial Hospital for treatment of face cuts.

Outagamie County police said Leonard Wagester, 23, Waukesha, was northbound when his car struck the rear of a parked auto operated by Larry R. Norton, 19, Milwaukee, who had engine trouble with his vehicle.

Injured were Wagester, Sandy L. Heilbarger, New Berlin Sherry Wagester, Waukesha and David Hansen, 24, Milwaukee. Police estimated damage to the two cars at $1,600.

WAUPACA—Judge Nathan Wiese, Waupaca County Court Branch 2, found LaVern Cady, Tigerton, innocent to charges of disorderly conduct, filed by Marilyn Currier.

Cady entered a plea of innocent on Dec. 7 when he answered Currie's charges. Allegedly Cady started an argument with Currier in Tom's Place in Ogdensburg on Nov. 24.

A fine of $100 and costs, or 25 days in the Outagamie County jail was levied Friday against Arthur G. Koehn, 40, Milwaukee, for public intoxication. He pleaded guilty. Appleton police made the arrest after an incident in the 200 and 300 blocks of N. Appleton Street Thursday. A $31 forfeiture for the same charge was directed earlier for Richard Dale Coons, 31, 315 E. College Ave. City police arrested Coons after an incident in the 100 block of S. Durkee Street last Sunday.

Thomas Kilsdonk, 18, 121 N. Drew St., was sentenced to 90 days in the Outagamie County jail with the Huber Law privileges Friday for shoplifting. County Judge Nick F. Schaefer imposed the term. Kilsdonk took two cartons of cigarettes from Luckee Badger Foods, 509 N. Richmond St., on Nov. 20. He previously pleaded guilty.

Kenneth Spaulding route 1, Hortonville, was fined $50 and costs Friday for possessing a doe carcass without a party permit on Nov. 26. He entered a guilty plea before Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer. State conservations wardens brought the charge in the Town of Deer Creek.

A charge of selling beer to minors brought a fine of $100 and costs Friday for Eileen Huff, 41, Oneida, who pleaded guilty before Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer. A county investigator alleged that one of the woman's employees at Huff's Bar in Oneida sold beer on Dec. 5 to a 15-year-old boy. Mrs. Huff is co-operator of the tavern.

Taking a paint brush from the Treasure Island store Dec. 13 brought a fine of $50 and costs Friday for Walter Glantz, 48, Cecil. He pleaded guilty to the charge before Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer.

A 10-day jail sentence was directed Friday for Michael A. Metoxen, 26, route 2, Kaukauna, for driving after his license was revoked. Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer stipulated the term be served with the Huber Law privilege. Metoxen pleaded guilty of that count and one of inattentive driving in connection with the same personal injury accident on County Trunk E in the Town of Oneida Thursday. Schaefer imposed a $20 fine for the second traffic count.

The theft trial for Frank Schinkis, 41, Green Bay, will be Monday. Outagamie County investigators allege he took a chain saw from the garage of a Town of Oneida man on Oct. 12. He pleaded innocent to the count before County Judge Nick F. Schaefer Friday. He was returned to the county jail under bond of $100.

Further court proceedings for James McGowan, 24, 201 E. State St., Black Creek, will be Monday on a charge of procuring and furnishing beer to a minor. An Outagamie County investigator alleged that McGowan, who had bond set at $500, served beer to three girls, ages 14, 15 and 17, in Shiogton on Dec. 4 and 5.

Sentencing for William M. Fitch, 26, 1753 N. Ullman St., will be Jan. 26, on three counts of issuing worthless checks. Fitch pleaded guilty Friday to passing three checks, totaling $20, at The Ultimate Bar, 1101 W. Wisconsin Ave., on Nov. 13 and 14. Seven other worthless checks, totaling $96.15, were read into the record before Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer. Schaefer noted that restitution for some of them has already been made.

Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer adjourned the case of Donald A. Krueger, 53, 1312 S. Casaloma Drive, to Jan. 19 so his attorney may consult the findings of a medical report. Krueger allegedly took two packages of veal pork chops and seven packages of party hose from the K-Mart foodstore on Dec. 11. He is free on a $100 bond.

Mary Bobcanik, 105 W. Atlantic St., was taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital about 4:40 p.m. Friday after she was struck by a car while walking across Appleton Street at Washington Street.

Appleton police said she suffered arm, leg and back injuries. The driver of the car was Conrad Verhelst, 27, 401 W. Foster St., who was turning onto Appleton Street while westbound on Washington. The pedestrian was in the crosswalk, police said.

An eight-track stereo tape player, valued at $110, and 10 tapes were stolen from a car owned by Melvin W. Marks, 1221 W. Commercial St., Appleton police were told Friday.

Two cars and a house were damaged and two motorists were hurt early Friday afternoon when their cars collided at Jackson and McKinley streets.

Appleton police identified the drivers as Robert L. Vondracek, 22, 2313 S. Jefferson St., who was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital for treatment of a head cut and a knee bruise, and Patricia Landusky, 1309 1/2 S. Jackson St., who had a hip bruise.

Police said that after the cars collided in the intersection, the Landusky car struck a house at 503 E. McKinley Street, owned by Kenneth E. Marks. There was damage to the porch and siding on the west wall.

OSHKOSH—Gene Brooks, 1305 Francis Way, Menasha, reported at 8 p.m. Friday to Winnebago County police that a case of beer, a case of empty beer bottles, and a case of assorted liquor was missing from his unlocked garage. He said the theft occurred between 7 and 9:30 p.m. Thursday.

OSHKOSH—Winnebago County Police were investigating a burglary reported early Friday morning of Memorial Florist, 104 Gardeners Row, Menasha. Tom Aykens, owner, said he found the safe had been drilled open. He was to report an estimate of loss.

Playboy Sent To Clergymen At St. Norbert

DE PERE (AP)—Six of the top-ranking clergymen at St. Norbert College have received gift one-year subscriptions to Playboy Magazine.

The gifts carried the name of school president Robert Christin, who claimed he knew nothing about it.

Christin said he would call the magazine's editors to try to find out who ordered the subscriptions. He said the Roman Catholic school couldn't afford that type of expense and he wondered how many more such gifts had been made in his name.

Christin said he was unaware of the incident until one of the recipients called him on the phone—to thank him.

"Perhaps East should have doubled for a spade lead (the Lightner Slam Double suggesting the lead of dummy's first-bid suit). He didn't, and that was all the help that Goldman (South) needed.

This is the way the hand was originally reported here: "Goldman won the trump lead on the table with the jack and immediately tried to sneak his king of diamonds by, leading a small diamond from dummy. East won the ace and returned a heart to Goldman's ace. Declarer now entered dummy with a second trump and ruffed a low dia-

From time to time, The Aces become aware of gentle reminders that, as individual players, they have not yet achieved perfection.

Today's hand was reported in one of our earlier columns, with Bobby Goldman being cited for excellent play. Ellis Samuel, one of Michigan's most popular bridge teachers, read our column and found a way to improve on Bobby's line of play.

mon, hoping to bring down the queen. No queen.

"Undaunted, Goldman entered dummy by ruffing a good heart and trumped another small diamond. Success. West's queen came tumbling down, and Goldman was able to discard one of his spades on dummy's jack of diamonds.

"Goldman's play had nothing to lose. He could always fall back on the spade finesse. But Bobby preferred to avoid any finesses this year if he could manage it."

Ellis Samuel, while agreeing with our main theme concerning the necessity for postponing finesses, points out an even better play before falling back on the finesse. (Goldman agrees that Samuel's recommended play is better.

Samuel would have played two rounds of trumps and then played four rounds of hearts, discarding three of dummy's diamonds. At trick seven, he would have exited with the king of diamonds. If East had the ace, he would be forced to win the trick and either to lead to dummy's A-Q of spades or to yield a ruff and sluff.

If West had held the diamond, then Goldman could still fall back on the even chance of the spade finesse. The chances of the diamond ace and spade king being with East are better by 10 to 15 per cent than the queen of diamonds dropping triplexion.

Samuel's line of play is unusual and easily missed at the table. Upon reflection, it's a good thing that Goldman dropped the diamond queen. It's bad enough choosing an inferior play that wins. Imagine choosing one that loses

State Unemployment Hits High in November

MADISON (AP) — Unemployment in Wisconsin in November hit $102,800, the highest count for that month since record keeping started 15 years ago.

In November last year the number of jobless workers totaled 71,200.

The Department of Industry, Labor and Human Relations reported the figures today and added:

"The high unemployment reflects current worker layoffs following production cutbacks, and a substantial number of unemployed seasonal workers who have indicated their availability for work during the Christmas period."

Secondary layoffs because of labor disputes also contributed to the overall total, the agency added.

Wisconsin's civilian work force expanded seasonally in November to reach 1,943,000, an increase of 8,900 compared with October. In November a year ago the work force totaled 1,918,400.

The department said the gain last month could be attributed partially to the entrance of wage earners entering the job market to supplement other family income.

Post Office Hits Firm for Deception

A firm that advertised the sale of a so-called "complete National ZIP Code Directory," apparently masquerading as an official government publication, was found by the Postal Service to be "engaged in a scheme or device for obtaining money through the mails by means of false representations."

The decision involved "National ZIP Code Directory," which has Post Office box addresses in Washington, D.C., and Silver Spring.

In a hearing, the Postal Service contended that the firm falsely represented its publication as a complete, official listing of ZIP Codes used to facilitate movement of the mail. The firm's advertising bore the stamped legend "Use ZIP Code," carried a picture of Mr. ZIP and contained no notification that the publication was not an official national ZIP Code directory.

The Postal Service said, the 128-page "National ZIP Code Directory" was neither official nor complete, although it bore the same title as the Service's official ZIP publication.

If its decision becomes final, the Postal Service will issue an order forbidding payment to the firm of money orders, and it will return mail that is addressed to it.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Heloise:
Thought you might like to know what I fix as a Christmas gift for college students.

Taking a tip from the things my daughter takes back to the dorm, I have made several of these gifts.

I buy a basket and load it with small cans and jars of jelly, peanut butter, fruit juice, canned meats, boxes of crackers and melba toast, hard candies, etc.

Since the baskets are difficult to wrap with paper, I use checked gingham or a bandana print material about a yard square. Then I set the basket in it and catch the four corners on

Dear Heloise:
I attached a towel bar on the wall just above the edge of my bathtub.

After a shower I hang the rubber bathtub mat on the bar and let it dry. Makes for a much neater looking bathroom.

Frances

Dear Heloise:
I just came across a marvelous discovery.

I was using foam rubber to pad some corners and had a small piece left over. I decided to try an experiment, so I wet a piece and wiped finger marks off the wall. Then I used a dry piece to dust my lamp shades and furniture.

It's amazing the way the dust adheres to the foam rubber! Then I washed it, and you should have seen all the dirt that came out.

I was just thrilled at the results of using the foam rubber as a "dust cloth." Try it and see what I mean.

Dear Heloise:
I came upon this idea quite by accident just about this time last year.

It was Christmas Eve and close to dinner time when I discovered I did not have a dessert prepared, so here is what I did:

I thought I would quickly make some gelatin with ice cubes and then found I had no red gelatin. So I used orange instead, and a few drops of red food coloring.

We had the prettiest, tastiest, orange-flavored red gelatin dessert you ever smacked your lips over.

The family ate it and loved it and never knew the difference.

Big Stores Hit Credit Ruling

Companies Claim Interest Rate Ceiling Causes Money Loss

MADISON (AP) — Spokesmen for large retail stores hit back at an October Wisconsin Supreme Court credit ruling Friday in an appearance before the Uniform Consumer Credit Advisory Committee.

The committee is reviewing state usury laws to determine if changes are necessary. The laws limit the annual interest rate on revolving charge accounts to 12 per cent annually—one per cent per month.

The companies maintain they are losing money on their credit accounts and the state should allow them to charge more.

Jack Logan, a credit manager for the J. C. Penney Co., said his firm would have to charge 24 per cent to break even. He said it costs Penney's $1.29 for every $1 of credit business.

An executive of a Madison department store said an annual interest rate of 25 per cent would be required to break even on credit sales.

Consumer groups are contending that retailers and lenders, if given the opportunity, will charge the highest rate possible. The retailers and loan companies have countered by calling credit "the American way."

Federal Agents Are Operating In Green Bay

GREEN BAY (AP) — The Treasury Department's Division of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms announced Friday it opened an official office at Green Bay last September and has had agents in the area since last August.

The division refused to name its agents or say how many would be stationed in the Green Bay office, which will cover 13 northeastern Wisconsin counties.

The announcement was made in connection with the arrest Thursday of a 36-year-old Green Bay antique store owner, James E. Palmer, who was charged with unlawful possession and transfer of hand grenades.

Palmer appeared before Court Commissioner John Duffy, who continued the case to Monday and freed Palmer on $2,000 recognizance bond.

Wisconsin's Long-Term Debt Hits $600 Million

MADISON (AP) — Wisconsin government is carrying more than $600 million in long-term debt, Sen. Fred Risser, D-Madison, said Friday.

That figure should increase by almost $200 million next year, he said.

A member of the Building Commission, Risser emphasized that the figures are entirely separate from the executive debt. The long-term debt is for capital improvements such as roads, buildings and bridges.

"In 1970, Wisconsin spent about $20 million in interest charges on the debt," Risser said. "It is estimated that twice that amount will be spent next year because of increased borrowing and shortened bond maturities."

But Risser defended the need for such borrowing as "an important toll to finance long-term programs."

"The citizens of Wisconsin today should not have to pay the total cost for capital projects that will be beneficial to the citizens of tomorrow."

He said the tremendous requirements of such projects as construction of highways, bridges and institutions of higher education make it desirable that costs be spread out rather than to fall entirely on the current taxpayer.

Remove excessive snow from metal or Fiberglass awnings, canopies, carports, patio roofs, marquees and other roofs with limited or no pitch or from higher level pitched roofs where potential snow slides make lower level canopies vulnerable to damage or total destruction.

Recent snowfalls — with more to come — can cause much damage if action isn't taken to keep the load within structural limits.

Tax Rate in Dale Increased by $12

DALE — Property owners in the town will pay about $12 more in taxes per $1,000 of assessed valuation in 1971 than they did in the current year.

The net tax rate has been set at $76.22 for those in the New London School District, up $12.58 per $1,000 in assessed valuation, and at $73.17 for those in the Hortonville district, an increase of $12.10.

The tax levy for the New London School District amounts to $115,941 and accounts for $60.70 of the tax rate. The levy for the Hortonville district will be $45,972, taking $54.80 from each $1,000 of assessed valuation.

About $8,050 will go towards support of Vocational, Technical and Adult Education, District 12.

Property owners in the Dale Sanitary District will be charged an additional $3 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

The assessed valuation of the Town of Dale stands at $2,750,000, which is 35 per cent of equalized value. Based on the tax rate, some $214,120 is expected to be collected.

Tax bills will be in the mails shortly after Christmas.

Suspect in Burglary Faces Court

A 28-year-old burglary suspect, wounded during a police stake out of Xavier High School last Saturday, appeared in court Friday after being released from St. Elizabeth Hospital to answer to two counts of burglary.

Harry Mueller, Madison, appeared before Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer and informed him that his Madison Attorney would not be able to be present until Tuesday. Schaefer, granting the recommendation of the district attorneys office, remanded Mueller to the county jail under $25,000 bond.

Mueller was struck in the chest by shotgun pellets that killed Richard Eickhoff, 42, Madison, in a corridor at the high school.

He is charged with burglaries at Xavier and one which police say immediately preceded it, at St. Bernard Catholic Church.

A Combined Locks couple, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Zehren, 500 Hartjes St., appeared in court before County Judge Gustave J. Keller Tuesday, and their cases were continued to Dec. 23 for preliminary hearings. Zehren is held in the county jail without bond. Mrs. Zehren was left free after posting $150 of a $1,500 signature bond.

CLINTONVILLE — The Women of the Moose will sponsor a Christmas party for their children at 7 p.m. Saturday at the Moose Lodge.

Movies will be shown and Santa Claus will make a visit.

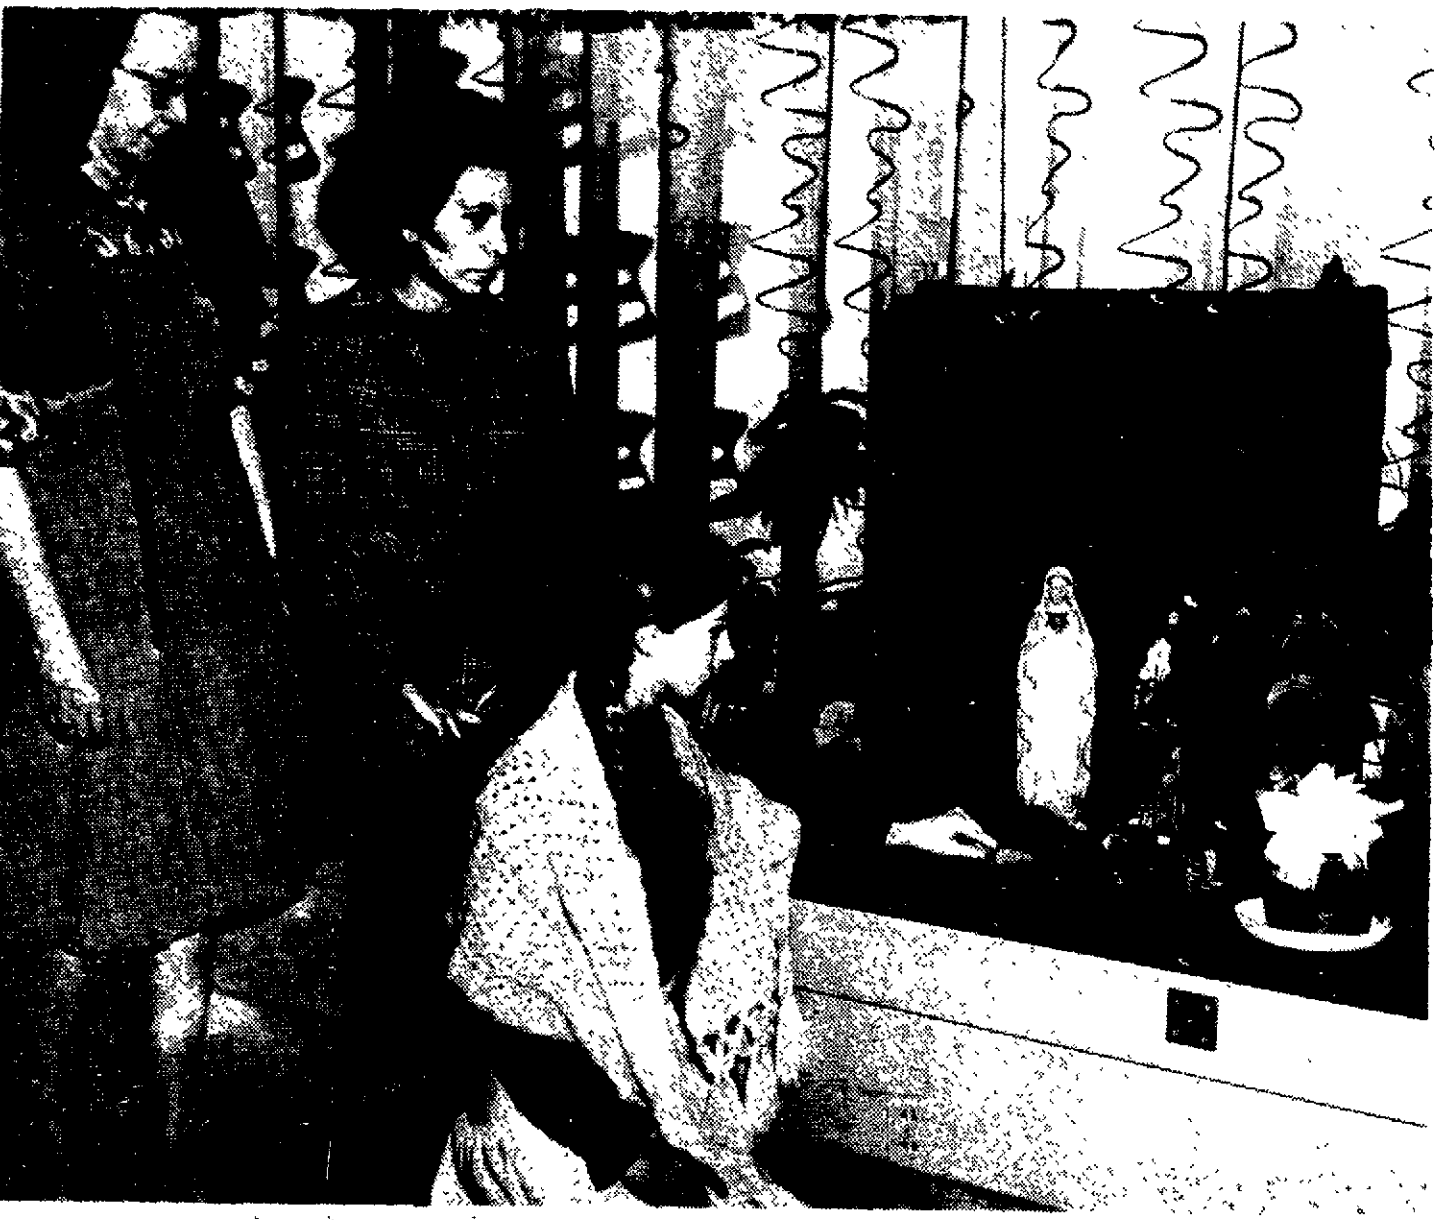

Final plans for the party were completed Thursday at the group's regular meeting.

The hospital committee met Monday evening for a Christmas party at Fischer's Supper Club, and after dinner, spent a social evening at the home of Mrs. Bernard Eberhardy.

Students From the Spanish Classes of Mrs. Daniel Stahmer at Hortonville High School recently presented a program for the Women's Society of Christian Services at the United Methodist Church, Clintonville. "Christmas in Mexico," was the theme. On the evening of Dec. 16, Mexican families start the celebration of "Posadas," the name given the nine days of Christmas celebration. The most fun comes with the breaking of the pinta, top photo, which is an earthenware jug decorated with crepe paper. The legend of the Christmas Eve flower, the poinsettia, was told in Spanish by Cynthia Leeman and interpreted by Debbie Kettner. # Little Fishing Future on Fox River

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Good fishing in the Fox River isn't in sight, but you may find it fairly safe to swim at Green Bay's Bay Beach Park by 1972.

That was the expert opinion cautiously ventured here this week by Thomas G. Frangos, administrator of the Division of Environmental Protection, Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources.

Frangos didn't volunteer either opinion; he expressed then in reply to a question by Gov.-Elect Patrick J. Lucey. The next governor spent the past two days at the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay conducting a budget hearing on environmental and life-support protection.

Adverse Influence Frangos reviewed the state's water quality situation overall for the hearing. From a sportsman's standpoint, it didn't sound too good as far as the Fox River is concerned. "Even with the best treatment today's technology can provide, the concentration of people and industry along the Lower Fox will continue to exert an adverse influence," he said. "We cannot predict an improvement in dissolved oxygen levels which would consistently meet our fish and aquatic life standards."

He added, however, that the impact of Fox River waste loadings on Green Bay should be substantially lessened.

"I think swimming might be possible by 1972, but you might not like it," Frangos said.

He explained that swimming might be safe enough for a health standpoint, but that accumulations of silt and other wastes on the bay bottom could be objectionable. That apparently suggests a call for an extensive cleanup project, but the DNR official didn't make any recommendations.

1972 Target The 1972 target for Bay Beach coincides with the scheduled completion of the new Green Bay Metropolitan Sewerage District treatment plant by Sept. 30 of that year.

Frangos told the governor-elect that the number of point sources of pollution in Wisconsin actually is declining. "And the remaining wastewater discharges are of consistently higher and higher quality," he said.

He attributed some of the decline in pollution sources to extension of the regional concept of sewage collection and treatment.

"Green Bay, Milwaukee and Madison metropolitan sewerage districts are gradually expanding their service areas, eliminating a number of small and generally inefficient sewage treatment plants," Frangos pointed out.

Partnership Procedure A pollution abatement partnership procedure between the DNR and the Department of Justice was described by Atty. Gen. Robert W. Warren.

"The order-issuing process is invested in the Department of Natural Resources, which is the administrative agency for the program. The Department of Justice is the enforcement agency for orders which fall delinquent," he explained.

Warren said 98 delinquencies were referred to his office for court action during the past two years. Thirty-nine cases are now closed, and 59 are pending.

"It has been my policy as attorney general to take immediate court action against polluters who violate orders issued by DNR," he continued. "This policy not only includes seeking the injunctions necessary to abate pollution, but also to ask the court to levy fines for violations of orders."

Convinced that the people want faster and tougher action, Warren said his office also is utilizing the public nuisance procedure. Still another power is that of public intervenor as provided by the Kellett Reorganization Act.

"This authority permits my office to intervene in any proceeding in which the public interest in water is affected," Warren explained. "The public intervenor works in important matters pending before the DNR, and my instruction is to pursue vigorously a firm pollution abatement position."

DNR Secretary Lester P. Voigt recalled the "scant two years since the new department became effective." Apathy and indifference to environmental matters have been largely dispelled, he believed.

"We agree with critics that there still are inadequacies, and at least part of that is due to the lack of sufficient manpower. It is also essential to remember that we must work within the statutory framework," Voigt said.

"I believe Wisconsin has a good environmental program, but we must not be satisfied with that," he added.

Oliver Williams, administrative assistant in Voigt's office, reported substantial progress in the solid waste disposal program after a late start. He said the department works closely with the soil and water conservation districts, and other agencies concerned with environmental protection.

Agricultural pollution problems were identified by Arthur Kurtz, assistant secretary of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture. He said the four major areas of concern are animal wastes, pesticides, chemical fertilizers and soil erosion.

"There is a need to preserve good agricultural lands against the future when there will be a much greater demand for food," Kurtz told Lucey. "Agriculture is assuming its role of responsibility in environment protection," he said. "Some of the problems will be difficult to solve, but substantial progress has been made."

Aspects of air pollution was reviewed by a panel of state agency officials. Frangos noted that interest in clean air is relatively new, but that federal and state legislation now require action.

He estimated that Wisconsin industries spent $1.5 million on air pollution control equipment

Quarterly Board Meeting

Homme Home Plans Additional Services

WITTENBERG — Extension of services of the Homme Home for the Aging, Inc., was voted Tuesday by the board of directors at its quarterly meeting.

Avenues to be studied are the use of certain medical treatments, recreational activities, food services and spiritual counseling. Mrs. Ray Peterson will serve as co-chairman of the project, together with the Rev. Reuben Carlson, who was introduced as the home's new chaplain.

Some of the extended activities may take place outside the home, while others will be conducted on the premises.

Immediate Goals

"With the home's present high occupancy of 105, which is one less than the licensed capacity, our immediate goal has been attained and the time has come to broaden our activities beyond our walls," said Dufur Peters, administrator of the home. "We hope our concept of services will be felt throughout the community as additional resource people become involved in establishing our programs," he stated.

Several suggestions will be explored. The home might serve as a center for such organizations as the cancer society and mental health clinic. It could also serve as a contact center for special assistance to the aged and shut-ins. Coordination with federal housing programs also will be investigated.

It was suggested that especially trained personnel on the Homme staff could be involved in leadership roles in churches and clubs as contact sources for the emerging role of Homme Home.

Present Responsibilities

It was explained that the structure of the corporation would not be affected, as corporate members would continue their present responsibilities.

Mrs. Frances Hall, RN, nursing director, was introduced to the board. She assumed her duties in December upon the resignation of Mrs. Evelyn Brannin, who has moved to Colorado.

Four Transfers

Mrs. Hall spoke of the home's serious concern in acquiring licensed nursing help. "The continuation of the medical assistance program is dependent on maintaining adequate skilled nursing care around the clock," she said.

The closing of the Cady Nursing Home in Birmamwood has brought four transfer residents to Homme needing nursing care. Homme is one of only two licensed skilled nursing homes in Shawano County. The other is the Shawano Convalescent Home.

Revised personnel policies were also approved by the board members, who are from the central Wisconsin area.

Children Present Christmas Plays

CLINTONVILLE — Students of the St. Rose Catholic School presented Christmas plays Wednesday evening at the combined meeting of the St. Rose Home-School Association and the St. Rose Christian Mothers-Altar Society at the school hall.

Grades 1, 2, 3 and 4 presented "The Lost Rabbit." Music was provided by choral groups. Grades 5, 6 and 7 presented "Our Lady Rode A Donkey." The Glee Club of grades 6 and 7 sang during the play.

There also was choral speaking by Grade 5.

Indians Win, 111-61

Kewaunee Romps Past Chilton Quint

KEWAUNEE — Big, powerful Kewaunee scalped Chilton, 111-61, Friday in a Packerland Conference contest which turned into a massacre.

The Indians recorded their fourth straight league win, while the losers dipped to 1-2. Kewaunee built a 15-5 lead, but the Tigers rallied to tie it at 18-18 and then went ahead 19-18 before the Indians took over for good.

Big Jack Novak, 6-4 forward, poured in 30 points on 13 fielders and four gift shots. Dale Koehler, the Indians 6-8 pivot man and Joe Schleis each contributed 16 points. Jeff Kuehl added 12 points for Kewaunee.

Mike Weller paced Chilton with 23 points, while Mitch Frank chipped in 10.

Kewaunee after holding a slim, 30-25, first period lead, increased its lead with each of the following quarters as the Indians easily built a 60-39 will be difficult to solve, but substantial progress has been made.

Piggyback Tax Criticized at Budget Hearing

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A "piggyback" income tax, under which counties levy a tax of up to 50 per cent of the amount taken by the state, was criticized Friday by James Morgan, secretary of the Wisconsin Department of Revenue.

Morgan was the leadoff witness at the seventh session in Gov.-Elect Patrick J. Lucey's series of budget hearings and the second being held in Milwaukee.

Lucey asked state agency heads for comments on the problems of city and suburban life in the next biennium. He had received testimony from citizens at Thursday's hearing. The piggyback tax has been endorsed by spokesmen for urban areas, including the Wisconsin Alliance of Cities, who say it is necessary for property tax relief.

But Morgan said that while such a tax appeared simple on the surface, implementation of it would involve a number of problems requiring careful analysis.

Not in Favor
"My personal reaction is not favorable to a county tax," Morgan said.

He said, for example, that Milwaukee County produced $92 million in property tax revenue last year, while income tax for persons and corporations in the county total $167 million.

Consequently, to provide the same amount of revenue from a piggyback tax that is now provided by the property tax, individual and corporate income taxes would have to be increased by about 50 per cent, Morgan said.

The revenue secretary also told Lucey that a revision in the system under which the state shares taxes with local municipalities might stand a better chance of approval in the 1971 legislative session — provided there was support from representatives of poorer rural areas.

He said the message of the Tarr Task Force proposal on revising the tax formula—defeated by the 1969 legislature—never really got through to persons from rural areas who thought it would primarily benefit big cities. Morgan pointed out that about 65 per cent of the state's municipalities would have received more aid under the Tarr proposal.

Other Criticism
The piggyback tax proposal also drew criticism from Norman Gill of the Citizens Governmental Research Bureau. He said it would just transfer the burden from one group to another. Gill also called for sequel studies on the Tarr Task Force work and the Kellett Commission findings on education.

William Kahl, state superintendent of public instruction, told Lucey his department's budget for the next biennium would total $880 million. Of this, he said, better than $807 million would be returned to local school districts to help relieve property taxes. The budget would include $75 million in federal funds channeled to the department.

He recommended that the state assume 20 per cent of the cost of long term debt retirement for local school districts. This, he said, would cost $15 million over the biennium.

He also suggested the establishment of an average mill rate of $17 per $1,000 of valuation for local school districts.

Welfare Costs
Wilbur Schmidt, head of the Department of Health and Social Services, told Lucey that rising welfare costs will make it imperative for the federal government to bear more of the public assistance load. He said the family assistance program being debated in Congress was "a step in the right direction" by leading to greater federal participation.

There have been suggestions from some quarters that the state take over the operation of all county welfare programs, and Lucey asked Schmidt how much such a move would cost.

Schmidt told him it would run in the neighborhood of $160 million for the biennium.

He said he had no immediate information on possible offsetting economies.

Schmidt said later that his department had given Lucey a budget request of $489 million, then asked for an additional $7 million. The total represents a 29 per cent increase of about $102 million dollars from current levels.

The increase includes a request for $6.5 million to bring payments under the Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) program to 100 per cent of need, Schmidt said. They're currently at an 83 per cent level.

Several witnesses emphasized a need for streamlining the judicial process as a means of helping to deal with the urgent crime problem.

Milwaukee County's chief judge — Robert Curley — said there was a need for more courts in his area. He also suggested the possibility of eliminating jury trials in minimal types of misdemeanor violations, and of cutting back to six-member juries instead of 12.

A spokesman for the Wisconsin Judicial Council recommended establishment of uniform traffic court procedures, a revision of methods used in juvenile courts, and a review of civil and slamm claims case procedures.

Attorney Gen. Robert Warren told Lucey that he was about to improve the second comprehensive plan of the Wisconsin Council on Criminal Justice, which projects a commitment of more than $235 million in federal, state and local funds over the next five years.

A spokesman for the University of Wisconsin and the Medical College of Wisconsin discussed health manpower needs. They said that appreciable increases in enrollment at both schools would have to await completion of new facilities, described as being of prime importance in attracting medical students and keeping them in the state after they become doctors.

Rural Life
The quality of rural life will be the subject of discussion at hearings in Stevens Point Tuesday and Eau Claire the following day.

After that, Lucey said Friday, he will draw on the information gathered at the nine hearings when he gets together with his budget analysts to decide where and how he can pare some of the fat off the budget requests, which total a record $2.2 billion. Lucey said he expected to be kept busy through the holiday period working on the budget, with the actual mechanics of putting it together for submission to the legislature taking the better part of January.

Lucey, a Democrat, will succeed Republican Gov. Warren P. Knowles next month. Faced with what he describes as a fiscal emergency, Lucey has already asked state agency heads to cooperate in an austerity campaign.

Outgoing Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich rapped Gov.-Elect Patrick Lucey Friday for crying wolf about the current state financial picture when the state is expected to have an $18 million surplus at the end of the fiscal biennium next June 30.

Froehlich, who will become Assembly minority leader, claimed the Democratic governor-elect was trying to build up the surplus to more than $18 million so he could spend that money during his administration.

Froehlich also charged that "it's fraudulent" for Lucey to claim the state is in fiscal trouble now and should institute an austerity program immediately.

Lucey's austerity campaign also encountered some friction Thursday from Gov. Warren Knowles, who urged at his final State Building Commission meeting that with such a surplus expected about $27,000 should be spent for improvements at the University of Wisconsin.

Froehlich said that Lucey was "trying to blame a fiscal mess on the Republicans so that he can get off the hook on his campaign promises for the next two-year period." Froehlich said the surplus should be used to reduce the need for additional taxes "which Lucey has been talking about."

The Assembly speaker from Appleton said that the state had been in danger of a $25 million deficit near the end of the last biennium because of increased welfare costs but Knowles instituted an austerity program and the deficit was held down to about $4 million.

On the current surplus, he said that sales taxes probably will be raising about $40 million more than was anticipated but that corporate and personal income tax revenue will be down about $22 million.

Froehlich called Lucey's austerity plea "the biggest farce ever perpetrated on the people of the state."

Lucey Fiscal Plan Rapped By Froehlich

ment noted Lucey's forecast of a $500 million gap between tax revenue and budget requests for the 1971-73 state budget, despite prospects of a surplus in the current budget of $18.5 million.

"You don't have a fiscal crisis when you have an $18 million surplus," Froehlich said.

Lucey's appeal had better luck with Republican Rep. David Martin of Neenah who, during a meeting with Knowles and the State Building Commission, called for delays in construction spending at the University of Wisconsin.

The commission was asked to postpone action on 28 UW remodeling projects worth $270,000, then modified the idea and approved $150,000 in projects.

"None of them are so essential that they can't be delayed," Martin, the unsuccessful Republican candidate for lieutenant governor Nov. 3, told the commission.

But Knowles, presiding at his final Building Commission meeting, said it would be a "very short-sighted policy not to do the things that have to be done when you have the money."

"I've never found yet that you save money by deferring," the governor argued.

Nevertheless, Knowles joined Martin in voting against the $150,000 appropriation, which UW could disperse as it sees fit.

Martin did not specifically mention Lucey's request that state government be temporarily conservative about spending in an effort to hold down tax increases.

But he did say he thinks "we have an opportunity to act in accordance with the position taken by the governor-elect," and prefaced the observation by suggesting Wisconsin doesn't have a financial crisis.

"I think the present administration is leaving the state of Wisconsin in good shape," the assemblyman said.

The Building Commission rejected Martin's request to defer the UW funds 4-3. It voted 6-2 for the $150,000 settlement.

No Counterfeit Bills Found

The story that counterfeit $20 bills were being found in the Fox Cities area apparently is counterfeit.

Appleton police said Friday that they checked bills at numerous business places, including three bills at the First National Bank of Appleton, and found no counterfeit ones.

A detective said he would continue to respond to calls but wasn't conducting an investigation anymore.

A spokesman for First National of Appleton said that the bills apparently weren't counterfeit but that the bank still was concerned and was sending in several bills to be checked by the Treasury Department.

At Green Bay, where the counterfeit scare originated, a police detective said he knew of no counterfeit bills which his department had seen.

At the same time, a spokesman for the Green Bay bank which reportedly had found a bad $20 bill said the scare was unjustified. He noted that counterfeit bills are found and turned over to the U. S. Treasury Department at various times over the years.

He said the scare started when the Green Bay Area Chamber of Commerce was alerted to possible counterfeit bills in the area.

A spokesman from First National of Appleton said he had five counterfeit $20 bills Thursday, but apparently none really were. Appleton police and a Treasury Department investigator have answered complaints in this area.

Planning Commission Four Are Appointed To Housing Committee

Appointments to a standing committee on housing were announced Friday by the chairman of Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission.

Henry Allhiser, planning commissioner from Shawano County was named chairman of the committee. Other commissioners appointed were Henry Breitling, Appleton; Hilary Waukau, Neopit; Menominee County and Ronald Abbott, Fremont; Waupaca County.

The housing committee will provide policy guidance and assistance to the housing section of Northeastern's executive staff.

Allhiser is the personnel director of Consolidated Badger Cooperative in Shawano. He has served many years as a supervisor on the Shawano County Board and was originally named to the Northeastern Commission by former governor, Gaylord Nelson. He was reappointed by Gov. Warren P. Knowles. Allhiser is chairman of Northeastern's finance committee and the merger committee which meets with representatives of the Fox Valley Council of Governments Jan. 11.

Henry Breitling is a member of the Outagamie County Board's housing authority and was appointed to Northeastern by the County Board in 1968. He is a farmer and a member of the Board's agriculture and conservation committee.

Menominee County commissioner Hilary Waukau is assistant to the president of Menominee Enterprise, Inc. for resource and business development. He is also resident manager of the Visitor Destination Center at Keshena. He has been active in securing federal assistance for housing projects in Menominee County.

The fourth appointee, Ronald Abbott of Fremont was recently appointed to Northeastern by Knowles. He is manager of the Fremont branch of the Appleton State Bank.

Northeastern's housing section works to identify economic needs at all income levels and applies development schemes to these needs, to increase the economic strength of the counties the commission serves. Action is achieved by utilizing federal technical assistance and financing by private developers. The goal of the section is to secure a higher quality of life for the people being served by developing human resources.

Byers on Trip To Washington

Also making the trip are Rep. Lawrence Dey, D-Marathon County, and Gordon Bradley, R-Winnebag County.

Public Reports to be Made Rural-Urban Council Seeks More Influence on Officials

The Outagamie County Rural-Urban Development Council will try to secure greater muscle by reporting publicly on the fate of its recommendations.

Action taken by officials seeking council assistance will now be reported in public meetings and through news releases. The council previously had not prescribed ways to reveal its recommendations to the public.

The new policy, formulated Friday on a motion of Garry Blomberg, Appleton farm management agent says it must "inform the general public of community problems and action taken by official groups through educational meetings and mass media."

Frank Charlesworth, Appleton, coordinator of public works, had noted that the council has no way to see that its recommendations are carried out. "There's no one to follow up,"

Spur to Action
Jerry Starling, Appleton, director of regional planning for the Fox Valley Council of Governments, said plans often are developed but are seldom acted upon. "We could get the ideas out to the public through an education committee."

Joe Kasperek, route 1, Black Creek, council chairman, also backed the measure. "The only action you can get from the elected officials would be if you can exert pressure on them."

The council also approved formation of citizen committees on economic development, environmental quality improvement and quality of living improvement.

The eight-member council steering committee will appoint citizen members to serve on each of the major panels. The trio of panels will then appoint subcommittees to investigate individual community problems. Members of governmental agencies will serve only as advisers. Dennis Hohfelder, Greenville, Department of Natural Resources forester, stressed the need for citizens to guide the council. "I'm afraid that if the agency people take the initiative it'll fall short."

Public Housing
Kenneth Theine housing planner for the Fox Valley Council of Governments, told council members income statistics show there may be as many as 12,300 households from Oshkosh to Kaukauna eligible for public housing assistance. He said 18,000 households may be eligible for federal assistance in financing houses. Applicants also may be limited by maximum asset requirements.

Adjusted income statistics cited by Theine showed that about 15 per cent of the households from Oshkosh to Kaukauna had an income of $3,000 or less, 16 per cent had incomes from $3,000 to $6,000 and 33 per cent earned from $6,000 to $10,000. There were nearly 37 per cent of the households drawing incomes more than $10,000.

National income statistics show 16 per cent of all households have incomes of less than $3,000; 18 per cent from $3,000 to $6,000; 26 per cent, $6,000 to $10,000 and $10,000 and higher, 40 per cent.

The statistics indicated the Oshkosh to Kaukauna area has "a much bigger middle income group than the nation as a whole," said Theine.

Council members discussed the need for improved rural housing but decided not to act until the committee on quality of living improvement can establish its subcommittee.

Buckley to Run for County Executive

Appleton Mayor George Buckley announced Friday that he will be a candidate for the newly created post of Outagamie County executive.

He is the second candidate to

Buckley

announce. Kimberly Public Works Director Patrick Flanagan announced earlier this year.

In a prepared statement, Buckley said, "I do believe that our county executive should be one who has served in an elective position, preferably that of chief executive of a Wisconsin city — such as mayor or city manager."

He said he was not attempting to fit him but said, "I feel this way because a part of the duties of the county executives are to coordinate and direct all administrative and management functions of the county government. This is exactly what each mayor of our major cities does every day."

He also listed the executive budget which will be required of the county executive as a facet in his favor. "I would assume that the people of our county would prefer to have someone who has had experience with the executive budget of a large city."

The position of elected county executive for counties other than Milwaukee County was created by the 1969 state legislature and adopted by the Outagamie County Board last summer after a referendum in April.

The post carries a four-year term and an $18,500 annual salary.

Buckley, 54, served one two-year term as mayor and is in the middle of the first four-year term established for that office. He would come up for reelection in 1972. The mayor's job carries a $16,000 salary.

He previously served as 14th Ward alderman in Appleton for four years and as an alderman in Chicago for four years. He is married and has one child.

Viet Cong Mark Anniversary Of War With Mortar Attack

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong marked the 24th anniversary of the start of the Indochina war today with two attacks on U.S. troops and the first rocket attack in Saigon in a month and a half.

There were no American casualties from the two 100-pound rockets that fell in Saigon, but six Vietnamese civilians were killed and eight wounded by the missiles. Most of the victims were children.

Four other youths were wounded in a bomb explosion that damaged a Saigon Vietnamese language newspaper plant.

One of the two attacks on American forces was a 12-round mortar barrage that hit the headquarters of the 2nd Brigade of the 25th Infantry Division 40 miles northeast of Saigon. The American casualties in today's actions added to the 44,144 U.S. troops already reported killed and the 292,917 reported wounded in action in the 10 years Americans have been fighting in Indochina.

The number of Vietnamese civilian casualties in the past five years is estimated at more than one million, including at least 300,000 killed.

Today is officially commemorated by the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong as National Resistance Day. It was on Dec. 19, 1946, that North Vietnamese Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap issued a call to arms and Vietnamese troops attacked French colonial forces in Hanoi, triggering the Indochina war.

There has been a series of anti-American demonstrations and terrorist bombings in Saigon, and U.S. and South Vietnamese security has been tightened with measures including stepped-up patrols by American military police.

Three Americans have been killed and 14 wounded in the past week in three terrorist bomb and grenade attacks aimed at U.S. billets in Saigon.

Convoy Ambush

The second attack on Americans was an ambush of a U.S. convoy near the Hai Van pass 13 miles northwest of Da Nang. One American was killed and four were wounded. U.S. headquarters said. Damage to the convoy was said to be light.

Youths Get Big Present For Christmas

LEWISTOWN, Ill. (AP) — Three boys who five years ago found $12,950 in a mason jar which had been buried in a vacant lot are the rightful owners of the money. Judge Francis P. Murphy of Fulton County Circuit Court ruled today.

The beneficiaries of the windfall are Jeff Ellsworth, now 17, his brother Mark, now 15 and their cousin, David Gibson, now 18. The Ellsworth youths are from Canton, Gibson, who was visiting them, is from Tucson, Ariz.

The boys found the jar protruding from the ground in an area which had been bulldozed. No one ever established ownership of the money, which included a $1,000 bill and other large denominations.

Westmoreland Claims Army Is Modernizing

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Army Chief of Staff Gen. William C. Westmoreland says the Army is "willing to part with past practices where these no longer serve a productive and useful end."

Westmoreland told a Chamber of Commerce banquet audience last week that "we seek an arm in which service is personally satisfying, individually rewarding and professionally stimulating."

But, the general said, if an all-volunteer army is to be built, "public support must be visible, audible and tangible."

He said "we cannot attract the caliber of soldier in the numbers needed for an organization manned by some, directly attacked by others and halfheartedly supported by many."

Pollution and Space Exploration

It probably isn't fair to claim, as some news releases did, that the United States Senate has voted in favor of extended space probes but against aid to sewage and water systems. Unfortunately the bills on both came up on the same day.

There had been a move in the Senate to deduct from appropriations for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration some $110 million for the development of a space shuttle and space station which is undoubtedly the next step in man's further exploration of the other planets. Earlier Senator Fulbright, with considerable support, had urged the addition of $150 million in Federal grants to communities for sewer and water facilities construction. Both efforts were defeated by approximately the same votes—50-26 in one and 52-25 in the other. So it would appear that the Senate considers the space program more important than trying to preserve and improve the world we already have.

But this isn't the complete story. The bill which included the sewer and water provisions was a substitute for one that President Nixon vetoed last summer as contributing to the inflationary spiral. The Senate was trying to get a bill passed for the Department of Housing and Urban Development and some other government agencies which would be acceptable to the President. Although it cut some $300 million off the original measure, the Senate still requested more than $250 million more than the President wanted but it probably will be signed or at least allowed to become law. As far as the NASA requests were concerned, it has been increasingly clear that the majority of Senators do not want the Soviet Union to get far ahead of us in the space program. Substantial amounts have already been cut from our space program—enough to cause some resignations and other expressions of concern among those in the program. The importance of American leadership in space is difficult to determine, not only because of the excitement and adventurous aspect of the program, but because of concern over its relation to American security.

Nevertheless the decisions are not happy ones. We have long pointed out that a major polluter of the nation's waterways are inadequate or even non-existent sewage treatment plants. This is certainly true of the Fox River which contributes so heavily to the pollution of Green Bay and Lake Michigan. Obviously, despite the publicity of Earth Year and the need for environmental controls, the impact has not yet really reached Washington. If we had to decide, we wish the entire space program could be called off until we cleaned up this world. Unfortunately we don't know the Russian attitude on the situation.

Federal aid for municipal sewage facilities is urgently needed. We may find ourselves all emigrating to Mars one of these days from a clogged and smelly Earth. And what will we do to that planet?

Connally as Treasury Secretary

At a time when the nation seems to be increasingly bogged down in a financial crisis, the appointment of former Texas Governor John Connally as Secretary of the Treasury seems somewhat inadequate.

As far as we know Mr. Connally is primarily a political being. He managed some of the radio operations for former President Lyndon Johnson years ago and the suspicion remains that it was because of his loyalty to Mr. Johnson that he rose high in Texas Democratic political circles. Reportedly he was on the outs with former President John Kennedy and the latter's fatal trip to Dallas was made to try to mend fences. In the split between liberal and conservative factions in the party in Texas,

Mr. Connally was firmly on the conservative side. He had been suggested as a running mate for Hubert Humphrey in the 1968 presidential election, something that had northern liberal Democrats in a state of near hysteria. Television viewers will remember him sitting complacently beside Mayor Richard Daley during the drummed up demonstration in the balconies at the Democratic National Convention.

Maybe Mr. Connally is an expert on financial matters. Maybe, as President Nixon said, there is a need for a bipartisan approach to the economic problems in the nation. But we suspect there are a lot more financially knowledgeable people in the nation for the position than Mr. Connally.

The New U.N. Ambassador

There seems to be an unnecessary amount of concern over President Nixon's attitude toward the United Nations.

Certainly his change of ambassadors there was clumsily done although it appears it wasn't all Mr. Nixon's fault. The reports are that he intended to appoint Daniel Moynihan to the position but that the latter told someone and the news went to the press before the current ambassador, Charles Yost, had been told he was to be fired. Mr. Moynihan, who probably wasn't that enthused anyway, then decided to go back to Harvard.

Now the President has appointed George Bush, the defeated Republican candidate for the United States Senate from Texas and a member of the House of Representatives. Mr. Bush is conservative, he doesn't have a great deal of background in international affairs and his appointment may be part of the President's current wooing of Texas for some reason the just appointed former Texas Governor John Connally as Secretary of the Treasury). But Mr. Bush has seemed to be an intelligent young man and probably would have been a better Senator than his Democratic rival, Lloyd Bentsen, who beat the incumbent Ralph Yarborough in the primary and represents the conservative wing of the Texas Democratic split.

Mr. Nixon cannot be accused of completely ignoring the United Nations especially after the attitudes toward it by his most recent predecessor and the sad inclination of many U. N. members to try to use that international organization for their own projects. After former President Johnson's "coonskin on the wall" hard line in Vietnam didn't work, he did ask for United Nations mediation but it didn't get very far. We can hardly blame President Nixon for having doubts about the efficacy of United Nations efforts to cool the really hot spots of the world. Secretary General U Thant ordered the removal of U. N. peace keeping forces in the Middle East when Egypt demanded it. Such troops are on Cyprus only at the sufferance of Greece, Turkey, the United States and the Soviet Union. But North Vietnam and North Korea do not recognize any authority in the international body and probably South Vietnam and South Korea would not either.

The United Nations has a number of excellent and able agencies working on health, sanitary, agricultural and medical problems around the world. But its "peace keeping" mission depends upon the willingness of the combatants to keep the peace.

Perhaps, as it has been suggested, President Nixon is attempting to push Mr. Bush into a prominent position since he lost the race in Texas. He has been suggested as a possible successor to Mr. Agnew on the 1972 presidential ticket and exposure in a major position would not hurt.

There may be both lack of confidence in the United Nations and political considerations for Mr. Bush behind his appointment but he should be given a fair chance.

Full House Gathers for Lecture

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Post for Dec. 22, 1870.

Last Friday evening Hon. Justin McCarthy, of literary fame, made his appearance before one of the best-filled houses we have ever seen in Appleton.

Much to the relief of the audience, who had assembled at an early hour, the speaker was introduced at about 8 o'clock, by G. I. Brewster, president of the Young Men's Association. Mr. McCarthy, according to himself an "Irishman by birth, an Englishman by education, but an American because he loves out institutions."

Now in full vigor of intellectual and physical manhood, he is about 40 years of age and a graduate of one of the foremost institutions in Europe.

The course he pursued while Editor of the London Star, which period was contemporaneous with our Civil War, has made him a special favorite with the American people.

Mr. McCarthy's subject, on the occasion of the lecture before our people, was on the subject of the Franco-Prussian War. Without wearying his listeners with useless preliminaries, he

Jesus Was 'Displaced Person' For Almost His Entire Life

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Despite the prettiness ordinarily associated with Christmas, the birth of Jesus stirred official opposition to a point that made the first years of his life that of an exile.

From his birth, he was very much a "displaced person," born in a Bethlehem stable because there was no room in the inn. As he once put it, "Foxes have holes and birds of the air have nests, but the Son of Man has nowhere to lay his head."

It was soon after his birth that the Magi warned that King Herod sought the child's life, forcing Joseph and Mary to flee with him to exile in Egypt, where they lived for a period in a little town traditionally located about 12 miles north of Cairo, Heliopolis, now called Matarieh.

Afterward, when the family started to return to Bethlehem, they heard warnings of continuing oppression there after Herod's death. They changed their plans and traveled to Nazareth in Galilee, Joseph's native town.

There Jesus grew up, making a trip with his parents to Jerusalem at the age of 12, when he disappeared for three days and finally was found by his parents talking with scholars at the Temple. Then they returned with him to Nazareth.

When he began his ministry, at about age 30, he preached a sermon in the Nazareth synagogue, criticizing religious and racial prejudice. It created such an uproar — a mob tried to throw him off a cliff — that he left Nazareth, never returning there.

Everyone Would Like More 'Quality' Living

Editor, The Post-Crescent: I offer no solutions and I have no quarrel with the "stress for quality with austerity" campaign, regarding the educational dilemma, but I would like to leave these thoughts.

Many families, too, must manage within a limited income, many obviously forego steak for hot dogs or less — many are strained to live in disrepaired status, many must wear poor quality or second-hand clothing — heard enough?

Don't you think everyone is aware of and would like to live with a little "quality"? Haven't many had more than their share of "austerity"?

If parents decide to serve grand meals for several days then serenely announce, "we'll have nothing today," or "we'll buy you this beautiful brand name coat, but you'll have to go barefoot" or we'll get this big new home in this exclusive neighborhood but there'll be no furniture in it? What sort of sense does it all make?

Somewhere in the last chapters of "The Gospel according to Peanuts" (a delightful bit of reading) is a reference to Christians being the acceptors of society's leftovers.

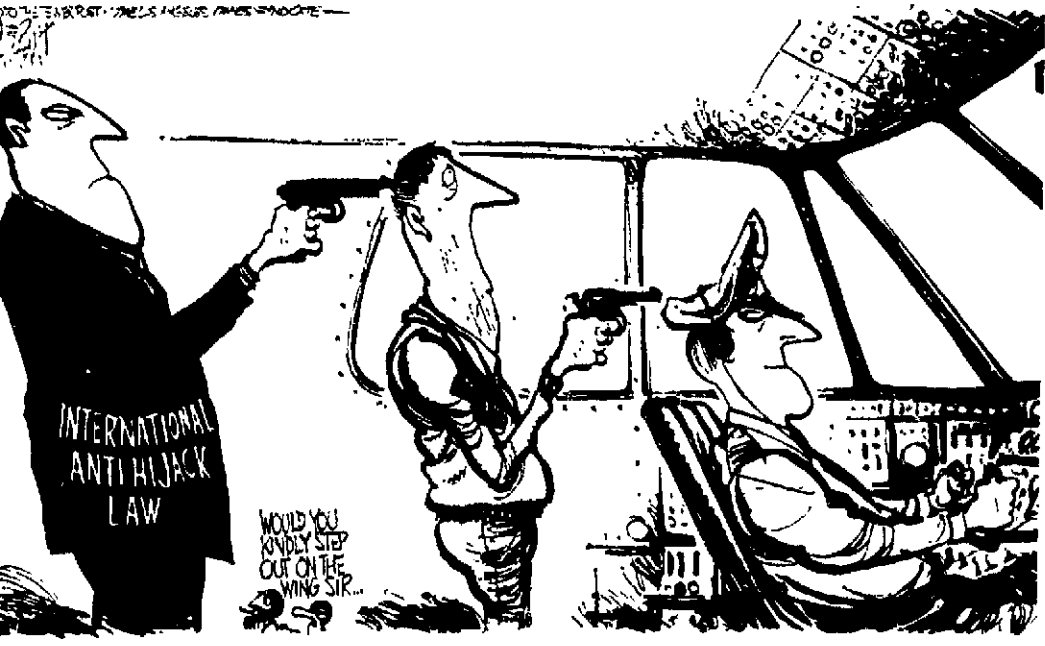

"Progress for the sake of progress" is about the same as "change for the sake of change." If it's only for the benefit of some, it's pure balderdash!

We're just going to have to "learn and teach" resourcefulness, the only necessary "quality" for our present society.

Trouble is there's no course for it. We'll have to set our own. Opener's anyone? —

Lucey Questions Job Performance of Our University Systems

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Education is the major activity of the state, Gov.-Elect Patrick J. Lucey asserted as he launched his executive budget hearings state's interests required the growth in size and quality he had asked. But Nelson told him that the university should travel the highways to convince the taxpayers — and then return to the executive office.

Teaching Downgraded
This year Pat Lucey said he was not content with the university's performance. Again and again he talked about the need for emphasizing the institution's teaching mission — making it quite clear that he was concerned that teaching, which is the basic role of the school as far as the people and their sons and daughters and the vast majority of the taxpayers are concerned, had been dangerously downgraded.

A few days ago he returned to the theme, as the man who will write the new executive budget. In this regard at least, he is likely to get the sympathetic attention of both political parties in the legislature.

"I have listed this area (higher education) first and given it the most time because I believe it is the most important," he announced. "College has lost significance for many of the state's young people. Research and graduate instruction seem to be the only important campus activities these days."

"Campuses are much bigger and the student often feels that he has been lost somewhere in the enrollment crunch," he went on.

Strikes Responsive Chord
Doubtless there is political method in this critical beginning of Lucey's review of higher education. Concentrating on faults he sees may make budget adjustments more palatable. But it is also reasonably clear that he will strike a responsive chord in many quarters which may be useful to him politically. The state community faces crushing increases in the tax load for what is lumped into the "education" budget.

The educational brass doubtless spent an unpleasant day listening to a parade of hostile witnesses from its own constituency — undergraduate and graduate students among them. Some complaints were harsh and obviously exaggerated. Some echoed the bitter attitude, almost approaching contempt, of campus radicals whose extreme views have long since lost credibility.

But there were other voices among the carefully prepared list of witnesses, including that of one of a chief spokesman for Madison campus conservatives. The question that Lucey wants introduced to the public forum has been put there: Is the enormous expansion of institutional costs truly related to the educational function of the universities?

Clubwoman of Year Congratulates Others

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

Before "the new wears off my pewter candlesticks," I must thank Editor John Torinus, Women's Editor Alice Huck and staff for the lovely gift received with the honor of the Clubwoman of the Year award. A treasured reminder of the exciting experience of being called to receive the award after hearing the glowing eulogies of the 23 preceding nominees Mr. Torinus introduced! My congratulations to these deserving ladies who were singled out by their member organizations for the exceptional contributions they had made to their clubs and communities.

The Post-Crescent is to be complimented for sponsoring the annual Women's Club Information and Awards Breakfast. What a unique public service it provides in giving recognition to the individual and united efforts of women who volunteer their talents for the betterment of their areas of influence through community organizations! Appleton Toastmistress Club, with its limited quota of 30 members, was especially pleased to receive the 1970 award. By coincidence, it was bestowed during our first annual International Toastmistress Week, proclaimed by President Nixon "to honor an organization which prepares and encourages women to take a more active role in the leadership of their communities and the nation." So it really topped our week's activities that were planned to publicize Toastmistress purpose and goals.

Let I be counted among the Biblical "9." I must also humbly return thanks to Him to whom credit is due for this personal achievement and, in the same spirit, extend my, thanksgiving to friends and acquaintances who stopped by, called, or penned a note to say they "had seen it in the paper." Such responsive gestures reaffirm my faith in the warmth and empathy of this fine community in which we enjoy daily opportunities to share our talents in expression of Christian love and stewardship.

Dark Horses Wait in Line

By WALTER R. MEARS and CARL P. LEUBSDORF AP Political Writers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana says he is considering running for president—so seriously, apparently, his would-be campaign managers are planning to hire a staff of 40 to help him ponder the question.

Sen. Harold E. Hughes of Iowa says the odds are 100 to 1 against his becoming a candidate. Those odds, presumably, are somewhat lower at the political issues and research office already opened in his behalf.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington describes himself as an authentic noncandidate—while noting that “some very substantial people” have suggested he run.

“I’ve declined,” said Jackson. Look across the Senate floor and on almost any working day you’ll find there a cast of possible candidates, almost-candidates, candidates-in-waiting, and soon, candidates-in-being.

10 of 55

When the new Congress convenes at least 10 of the 55 men on the Democratic side of the aisle—and probably more—will fit one of those descriptions.

Among them: Edmund S.

Muskie of Maine, Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, George McGovern of South Dakota, Bayh, Hughes, Jackson, Fred Harris of Oklahoma, Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota, William Proxmire of Wisconsin.

Another long-shot possibility: Ramsey Clark, the former attorney general.

Indeed, the public opinion surveys turn up evidence of support among Democrats for Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York City, a Republican.

“I think President Nixon is quite vulnerable in 1972, but the Democratic party has to hang together,” said Iowa’s Hughes.

“If we wind up with 12 Democrats running in the presidential primaries, it won’t contribute to unity.”

But the list of prospects 13 months before the primary campaign season opens in New Hampshire is a long one, and it centers on senators.

Centers on Senators

Bayh, 42 and serving his second Senate term, appears far down the path of candidacy.

He roams the nation on a speaking, base-touching tour; is looking for financial support and is expected soon to open a political command post for a White House nomination campaign.

“The best way to describe my present status is that I’m considering it,” says Bayh, who gained national attention as a leader in the Senate struggles that led to the rejection of two Nixon nominees to the Supreme Court.

Reasonable Possibility

“I want to see whether it is a reasonable possibility.”

But a politician familiar with the Bayh game plan says a political office will be opening soon, with a staff of about 40 people in Washington and in key spots around the country.

Bayh expressed confidence of raising money. “There have been enough people that have offered to provide funds,” he said in an interview. “... I am surprised at the amount of interest that exists.”

Bayh acknowledges the long lead now held by Muskie, but adds “It’s not necessarily decisive.”

“I like Ed Muskie and think he’d make a good president,” Bayh said. “All of the candidates I’ve heard proposed I’d be very compatible with him.”

The translation seems to be that Bayh might well be interested in vice presidential nomination. “I hadn’t considered it,” he says.

“I plan to visit with some people around the country and let nature take its course. The idea of being able to use the influence of the presidency and pull it together and get it on the right track appeals to me.”

Hughes, 48 and a three-term Iowa governor, says he is just trying to do his job as a freshman senator—but acknowledges soundings about presidential possibilities.

“I have no intention of being an announced candidate for the presidency for a long, long, time—if ever,” says Hughes, who got one per cent from Democrats in a recent poll.

As for the political office already opened in his behalf, Hughes explains it is designed to support his Senate activities, through research and issues development.

“I have never been to the office,” says Hughes. “I don’t even know the telephone number.”

But there are four people in that special Hughes office, not far from the Capitol.

“People are pushing him faster than he is prepared to go at this time,” one source says of Hughes. “He’s less than a hungry dragon now.”

Hughes, is a former truck driver, a man who overcame alcoholism, a Midwestern liberal, a Democrat who was among the first major officeholders to break with former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Hard Line

Unlike other possible Democratic contenders, Jackson takes a generally hard-line on defense and foreign policy issues.

“I don’t think we can win in 1972 if we leave the country with the impression that we are not supporting a responsible defense and foreign policy ...” Jackson states.

Jackson says he intends to stress those issues, to speak out on “what I think the direction of our party ought to be,” but not as a candidate.

“I’m just a noncandidate, period,” says Jackson, a member of Congress for 30 years and a senator for 13. “I’m not doing anything about it.”

“I’m authentic. I don’t have a downtown office or an upstairs office or whatever you’re supposed to have.”

And what happens if Jackson finds as the convention draws closer there is no one in the presidential running following the defense and foreign policies he favors?

“One step at a time,” the senator says.

Order Prohibits Sale Of 28 Cases of Nuts

A federal judge has signed an order at least temporarily prohibiting the sale of 28 cases of cashew nuts by United Grocers, Inc., of Little Chute.

The nuts, packaged by the Johnson Nut Division of Fairmont Foods Co., Hopkins, Minn., may contain insects, may have sustained insect damage and may have been packed under unsanitary conditions, according to federal officials.

The product is labeled Fairmont Snacktime Salted Cashews. Each of the 12 bags in the 28 cases reportedly weighs one pound.

The complaint involving the nuts was filed in U. S. District Court, Milwaukee, on Nov. 23.

A spokesman at United Grocers said only about 20 cases of the cashews went to the 250 stores in the area that buys from the Little Chute food distributor. The spokesman said there was nothing to indicate the cases that were sold were damaged.

And, he explained, it was not determined how much if any of the products in the 28 cases being held under court order are damaged.

He said he had heard three or four other food distributors handling the Johnson company cashews — including one firm in Sheboygan — also were affected by the court order.

A United States marshal from Milwaukee impounded the 28 cases.

Court Bars Discharge For Air Force Mother

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas has issued an order which stops the Air Force from discharging Susan Struck, an unmarried nurse with the rank of captain who recently gave birth to a daughter.

The order Thursday requires the Air Force to keep Capt. day.

Struck on active duty until a federal court in Washington state has ruled on her suit challenging a regulation which requires the discharge of women in the service who give birth.

Capt. Struck, 26, is from Louisville, Ky. If Justice Douglas had not issued the order her discharge from the Air Force would have been effective today.

Create Party Fun With Newspaper Headlines

Almost any newspaper headline can form the basis of today's party game for boys and girls.

An example of a suitable headline is shown in figure 1, stating, "Queen Mary Spruces Up to Receive Guests." It refers to the ocean liner, the Queen Mary.

Spruces Up To 7 Feet Tall Make Good Christmas Trees
Mary Spruces Up For Bill's Birthday Party

After selecting a headline, clip it from the newspaper and paste it on a piece of cardboard to be displayed where the party guests can see it.

Give each player pencil and paper. Then explain how the game is to be played. Here are the rules:

Each player must select any three words from the newspaper headline and use them in writing any other headline he can devise. Figure 2 presents three examples of what can be accomplished.

In the top headline the player used the words "Spruces," "Up," and "to," and created a headline saying, "Spruces Up to 7 Feet Tall Make Good Christmas Trees."

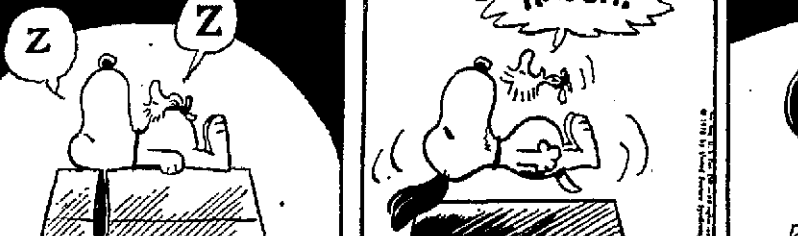

For the second headline a player selected from the original the name, "Mary," and the words "Spruces" and "Up," and created the headline saying "Mary Spruces Up for Bill's Birthday Party."

The player who wrote the bottom headline of the group used the words "Up," "to," and "Guests" and formed a headline stating "It's Up to Guests to Have Fun At Joe's Party."

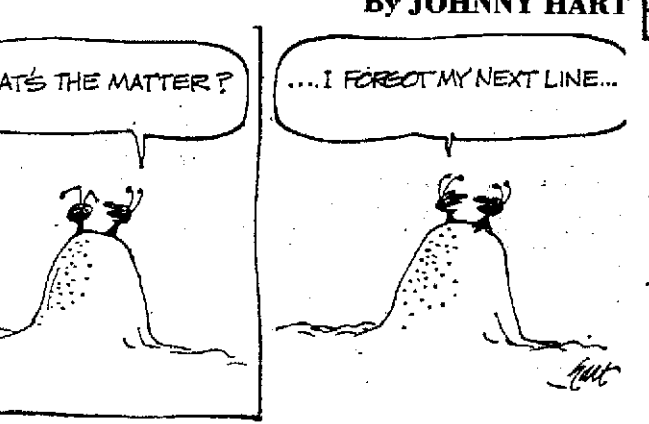

When all the new headlines have been written, have a committee select the first, second and third cleverest of them all and award small prizes to the writers of those three.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a divorcee, 34 — but I look younger. The "problem" I am writing about isn't exactly a problem yet, but it could be. So I am writing to Ann Landers — in the spirit of "preventive medicine."

I am planning to marry a man who is a few years my junior. Phil is divorced, but he has no children. We are both in love for the very first time. The potential problem is my daughter. Babs is 14 going on 20 if you get what I mean. She is as fully developed as I was when I married. The girl has entirely too much sex appeal for a kid her age.

Whenever Phil is around she behaves in a flirty manner and is shamefully aggressive. (Probably testing her femininity.) I have said nothing to anyone but it bothers me a great deal. Should I speak to Babs or to Phil or should I keep quiet? Does this bode ill for the future? Babs is really a good girl but her own father ignored her and perhaps this is why she is so eager for male attention. I should tell you that my daughter is hostile and openly competitive with me. Am I over-reacting? What do you think? — Tinderbox

Dear T.: Psychiatrists call the step-daughter-dad crush the Phaedra complex. (Phaedra was a mythological character in Greek literature who married an older man.) This sometimes occurs with natural fathers and sexy daughters but less often because of our cultural taboos against incest. One of the principle motivating factors, of course, is a daughter's inborn competitiveness with her mother.

Say nothing to Babs. She would interpret your un-

Pink Eye Contagious; Needs Special Care

By G. C. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: May we have a column on pink eye? Cause? Remedy? Possibility of permanent damage to the eye? Prevention of recurrence? — J.B.

Pink eye is an acute infection of the conjunctiva — the delicate, transparent membrane covering the eyeball and the inner side of the eyelids.

Cause: a germ, either the coccus type (staphylococcus or streptococcus) or of a bacillus, a tiny rod-shaped germ.

Pink eye is extremely contagious, and epidemics can occur in schools and institutions.

The only way to prevent the spread is to prevent contacts with someone who has such an infection. A child with pink eye should be kept out of school and away from any close contact with playmates until the condition subsides (The eyeball becomes fiery red, and may itch or feel sore, and there may be a discharge from the eye, and crusting of the eyelids.)

Treatment definitely is not a do-it-yourself affair. An antibiotic ointment designed for use in the eyes should be prescribed by the doctor. In addition scrupulous cleanliness is essential. Hands must be kept away from the face, and should be washed thoroughly, because that is the likeliest way for the germs to be transmitted — picked up on the hands, transmitted invisibly to someone else's hands, and then incidentally rubbed into that "someone else's" eyes

Permanent damage usually does not occur, although that is not impossible if a case is not treated. Without proper treatment, however, the infection can lapse into a chronic phase.

Dr. Thosteson

King Amputee To Visit His Grandchildren

KING — It would be difficult to be any happier for the holiday season than a 72-year-old double amputee World War I army veteran is here.

And Paul Janisch, resident of the Grand Army Home for Veterans, has a right to be.

He's going to make a cross-country trip of nearly 1,500 miles and spend Christmas with his grandchildren, whom he feared he might never see again.

Janisch's dream-come-true is the gift of "Operation Holiday," a Military Order of the Purple Heart project of the Wisconsin Department of Veterans Affairs.

All expenses for his trip — to Leavenworth, Wash., to the home of his daughter, Sarah — will be paid by that project.

Janisch just found out

Town of Menasha Chairman Roland Kampo, left, is all smiles as he accepts a toy commode trophy from William Jahn signifying the town sewage treatment business has entered the one million gallon per day class.

Clayton Tax Rates Register Increases

CLAYTON — A net tax rate of $36.47 per $1,000 of assessed valuation for the Town of Clayton was announced today by Clerk Milton Westphal. This state sales tax rebate per $1,000 rate is for all residents belonging to the Neenah Joint School District.

A $1.51 state sales tax rebate per $1,000 of assessed valuation brought the net rate to $36.47. The school rate is $29.91, county $7.70 and state $3.70. Once again there will be no direct town tax and the town will also pay the bill for Vocational, Technical and Adult Education which amounts to $1.80 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. This applies to both Neenah and Winneconne districts.

The school rate for the Clayton Tax Rates Register is $28.20 per $1,000 assessed valuation, county $7.70, state $3.70, giving a gross rate of $39.60. The $1.51 state sales tax rebate per $1,000 of assessed valuation gives a net rate of $34.76 per $1,000 assessed valuation.

The tax rate of those residents of the Town of Clayton that is a part of the Winneconne School District is up $2.35 per $1,000 valuation compared to last year, while residents of the Neenah Joint School District net tax rate is up $1.12 per assessed valuation.

Tax bills will be mailed out in January by Town Treasurer Elmer Spiegelberg, but property owners may pay taxes before the end of the year if they wish by calling Spiegelberg at his residence.

Quarterly Board Meeting Homme Home Plans Additional Services

WITTENBERG — Extension of services of the Homme Home for the Aging, Inc., was voted Tuesday by the board of directors at its quarterly meeting.

Avenues to be studied are the use of certain medical treatments, recreational activities, food services and spiritual counseling. Mrs. Ray Peterson will serve as co-chairman of the project, together with the Rev. Reuben Carlson, who was introduced as the home's new chaplain.

Some of the extended activities may take place outside the home, while others will be conducted on the premises.

"With the home's present high occupancy of 105, which is one less than the licensed capacity, our immediate goal has been attained and the time has come to broaden our activities beyond our walls," said Dufur Peters, administrator of the home. "We hope our concept of services will be felt throughout the community as additional resources people become involved in establishing our programs," he stated.

Several suggestions will be explored. The home might serve as a center for such organizations as the cancer society and mental health clinic. It could also serve as a contact center for special assistance to the aged and shut-ins. Coordination with federal housing programs also will be investigated.

It was suggested that especially trained personnel on the Homme staff could be involved in leadership roles in churches and clubs as contact sources for the emerging role of Homme Home.

Present Responsibilities

It was explained that the structure of the corporation would not be affected, as corporate members would continue their present responsibilities.

Mrs. Frances Hall, RN, nursing director, was introduced to the board. She assumed her duties in December upon the resignation of Mrs. Evelyn Brannin, who has moved to Colorado.

Four Transfers

Mrs. Hall spoke of the home's serious concern in acquiring licensed nursing help. "The continuation of the medical assistance program is dependent on maintaining adequate skilled nursing care around the clock," she said.

The closing of the Cady Nursing Home in Birnamwood has brought four transfer residents to Homme needing nursing care. Homme is one of only two licensed skilled nursing homes in Shawano County. The other is the Shawano Convalescent Home.

Revised personnel policies were also approved by the board members, who are from the central Wisconsin area.

Neenah District to Pay Highest of 3 School Tax Levies

OSHKOSH — Town of Vinland property owners will receive bigger tax bills early next year than those of a year ago, according to George Dobberke, town clerk.

Those in the Neenah School District will pay a rate of $34.51 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. Property owners in the Oshkosh School District will pay $33.87 and Winneconne District, $33.09.

Dobberke said the town's state taxes are up four cents per $1,000 of assessed value, the county tax took a dollar jump and vocational school taxes rose 13 cents per $1,000.

In addition, the Neenah schools raised its Town of Vinland levy by $2.41, Oshkosh by $2.82, and Winneconne, $3.13 per $1,000 valuation.

The Town of Vinland operates without a tax levy to support its budget. In addition, it advanced $3.03 per $1,000 of assessed valuation, a total $24,302, to reduce the net effective rates which will appear on new tax bills.

Three Injured In Accident On State 47

OSHKOSH — Three area persons were injured in an accident about 7 a.m. today on State 47, near Clover Street, Town of Menasha.

Take to Theda Clark Hospital, Neenah, for treatment were Diana Paulsen, 24, a neck injury, and David J. Elsholtz, 18, bump on head. Both are from New London. Advised to see a doctor was Linda Ohlrogge, 21, 740 Broad St., Menasha.

Police said a car driven by Gary G. Paulsen, 25, route 3, New London, was southbound on 47 when it stopped in the line of traffic waiting for a car ahead to turn left. His car sustained about $700 damage when it was struck from behind by a car operated by Paul Drzewiecki, 20, 628 State St., Menasha. Drzewiecki said he was unable to stop his vehicle in time to avoid the accident. Damage to his car was estimated at $800.

Neenah drivers were involved in an accident at 1:20 a.m. Friday on State 150, south of County Trunk O, when a car driven by John E. Draves, 30, 822 Jean St., Neenah, was struck by a car operated by Glen E. Wilcox, 37, route 2, Neenah.

Marene C. Andreski, 28, 505 Van Street, received bruises to her face and an injury to her hand. She was a passenger in a car driven by John Andreski Jr., 25, 505 Van St., who told police he had turned off Lincoln Street onto the bridge and swerved to the left in order to avoid an oncoming car which he claimed was weaving back and forth in the lanes.

14-Year-Old Delinquent on Conduct Charge

NEENAH — A 14-year-old boy was placed on two years supervision of the Winnebago County Department of Social Services after being adjudged delinquent on charges of being incorrigible and disorderly conduct.

Juvenile Judge James G. Sarres also ordered the youth placed in an Oshkosh group home after the youth appeared to answer the charges. He was arrested for using profane language on Sept. 19 and for conduct injurious to morals and health on Sept. 25.

Judge Sarres also placed a 15-year-old girl on one year supervision for being habitually disobedient and for shoplifting.

A 14-year-old boy was grounded for 30 days and placed on one year supervision after being found delinquent for being habitually disobedient.

Dismissed by Judge Sarres were charges of possession of LSD against a 16-year-old boy; charges of burglary against a 14-year-old boy, and driving without a valid driver's license and failing to report an accident against a 13-year-old boy.

Fire Chief Offers Safety Tips for Holiday Season

NEENAH — Fire Chief Ron Mertz this week warned that Christmas can be merrier by "keeping fire out of the holiday activities."

Urging attention to fire safety when planning Christmas trees, lighting, decorations and gifts, Mertz suggested two rules which are good all year round but especially important during the busy holiday season.

"Never leave children alone or without proper supervision, even for a brief time; and have a family escape plan worked out and rehearsed for use in case of fire in your home," he said.

National Fire Protection Association studies show that each year some lives are lost in Christmas tree fires, he said, and last year in the United States alone holiday fires damaged or destroyed homes and other property valued at $31 million.

Mertz offered these Yuletide fire safety guidelines:

— Natural trees should be fresh-looking and firm needed when selected. Saw off about an inch above the original cut, stand the tree in water, and keep in it water until you dispose of it — soon after Christmas day. Don't rely on do-it-yourself flameproofing treatments, as none are truly effective. Set up the tree away from heat and where it won't block doorways or stairs. Artificial trees should be clearly marked as made of slow burning materials. Look for the Underwriters' Laboratories (UL) label on trees with built-in electrical systems. With metal trees, use only indirect lighting to avoid the possibility of electric shock.

— Check lighting strings for frayed wires, loose connections, broken sockets. Replace only with UL-labeled sets. Bulbs made in the U. S. generally are safest; imported bulbs may have dangerous hot spots. Electric cord sets with built-in fuses are strongly recommended.

— Noncombustible materials such as metal, glass and asbestos should be used for decorations as much as possible. Make sure cotton batting, flock and decorating paper are flameproofed. Natural evergreen decorations dry quickly and burn readily, so keep them well removed from candles, the fireplace and other heat. Don't use polystyrene foam for table or mantle decorations where there are lighted candles.

— Dispose of gift wrappings promptly and safely — not in the fireplace.

— Be especially careful during Christmas season to keep matches and cigarette lighters out of the reach of children, and try to keep the youngsters from playing beneath or near the Christmas tree.

Kimberly Makes Rubbish Pickup Route Changes

KIMBERLY — Garbage and rubbish route pickups for the next two weeks will be changed slightly due to the holidays, according to Director of Public Works Pat Flanagan.

Extra trucks will be pressed into service Monday to make it possible for village crews to complete both the normal Monday and Tuesday routes. For the remainder of the week, rubbish pickup will be moved up one day.

Police Doubt Burglar's Try 'Worthwhile'

Police believe the burglar who finally opened the cash box he stole from an Appleton furniture store might be wondering if all his work was worthwhile.

The burglary at Riley Colonial Furniture, 217 W. Wisconsin Ave., was reported to police at 9 a.m. Friday.

The burglar broke a pane of glass in an overhead door to gain entry into the storage area. Police believe he then used a hammer to smash a lock to make way into the store proper.

The burglar ransacked cabinets and desks. The gray metal box was the only thing found to be missing.

But the box didn't contain cash. In it were 8,360 business checks (numbers 640 through 9,000) bearing the name of the store.

Police said the checks probably would be of little value to the burglar.

Kaukauna Man Is Injured in Car-Train Crash

The third traffic accident in one week at a railroad crossing north of Appleton resulted in a broken back Friday morning for a Kaukauna man. He is listed in good condition today at Kaukauna Community Hospital.

Outagamie County police identified the driver of a car that collided with a northbound Soo Line freight train on Capitol Drive as George Roovers, 48, 601 W. Tenth St., Kaukauna.

Authorities said he was traveling east on Capitol before the accident, which demolished his 1966 car. The crossing is located about one-half mile east of County Trunk A.

Rogers Willing to Continue Until Term Ends in April

KAUKAUNA — Fifth Ward Ald. William Rogers said Thursday he would be willing to complete his term in office until April, but due to legislative sessions at Madison, he would be unable to make many council committee meetings. Rogers also serves as 2nd district assemblyman from Outagamie County.

In a letter to Mayor Gilbert Anderson, he indicated he would be willing to step down anytime prior to the expiration of his term if the Mayor felt this would be in the best interest of the city.

Mayor Anderson noted, the letter should have been addressed to the common council since that group is required to appoint aldermen in event of a vacancy.

Rogers said, "I purposely indicated my willingness to step down at any time to permit aldermen to decide whether they feel it essential for me to be present for all committee meetings, particularly the board of public works meetings which normally are held on Monday evenings."

"I would be willing to drive from Madison to attend Tuesday night council sessions, but I don't feel I should drive from Madison for a Monday night meeting, return to Madison the following morning and then make another trip home for the Tuesday session," noted Rogers.

He indicated he would not be offended if other aldermen felt someone else should be appointed to represent his ward for the remainder of the term.

'Ice Buggy' Near Intake Concerns Water Officials

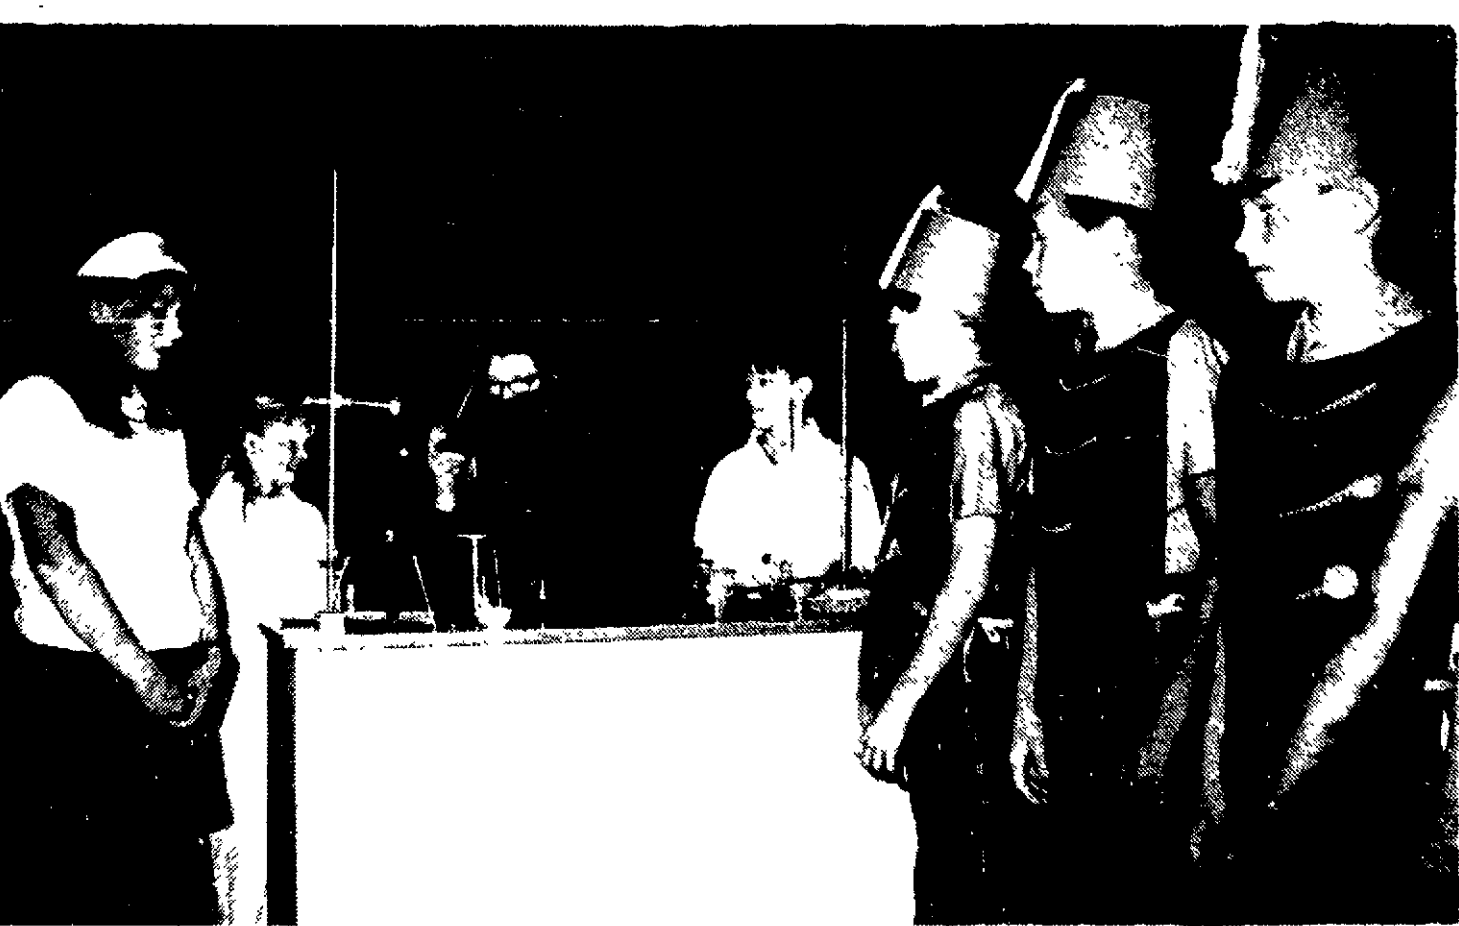

MENASHA — A car, found abandoned Friday morning on the ice in the channel owned by the City of Menasha as a water intake for the water department, caused concern for officials of the water and light department, but the car was safely removed by noon.

James Taylor, general manager of the department, told police that if the vehicle went through the ice, the gasoline and oil could plug the intake, sand filters and could cause great expense, possibly even polluting the city water supply.

The junked auto had been stripped down for use as an ice buggy. It was found about 30 yards from the water intake and reported to police at 10:26 a.m. by Gordon Ratzman Jr., of the department.

The police officer who investigated the complaint recognized the car and in checking, found it belonged to Jeff Miller, 1038 Brighton Drive.

The police called the residence, and talked to Mrs. Miller, who had the car registered.

Piggyback Income Tax for Counties Draws Criticism

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A "piggyback" income tax, under which counties levy a tax of up to 50 per cent of the amount taken by the state, was criticized Friday by James Morgan, secretary of the Wisconsin Department of Revenue.

Morgan was the leadoff witness at the seventh session in Gov.-Elect Patrick J. Lucey's series of budget hearings and the second being held in Milwaukee.

Lucey asked state agency heads for comments on the problems of city and suburban life in the next biennium. He had received testimony from citizens at Thursday's hearing.

The piggyback tax has been endorsed by spokesmen for urban areas, including the Wisconsin Alliance of Cities, who say it is necessary for property tax relief.

But Morgan said that while such a tax appeared simple on the surface, implementation of it would involve a number of problems requiring careful analysis.

Not in Favor

"My personal reaction is not favorable to a county tax," Morgan said.

He said, for example, that Milwaukee County produced $92 million in property tax revenue last year, while income tax for persons and corporations in the county total $167 million.

Consequently, to provide the same amount of revenue from a piggyback tax that is now provided by the property tax, individual and corporate income taxes would have to be increased by about 50 per cent, Morgan said.

The revenue secretary also told Lucey that a revision in the system under which the state shares taxes with local municipalities might stand a better chance of approval in the 1971 legislative session — provided there was support from representatives of poorer rural areas.

He said the message of the Tarr Task Force proposal on revising the tax formula—defeated by the 1969 legislature—never really got through to persons from rural areas who thought it would primarily benefit big cities. Morgan pointed out that about 65 per cent of the state's municipalities would have received more aid under the Tarr proposal.

Other Criticism

The piggyback tax proposal also drew criticism from Norman Gill of the Citizens Governmental Research Bureau. He said it would just transfer the burden from one group to another. Gill also called for sequel studies on the Tarr Task Force work and the Kellett Commission findings on education.

William Kahl, state superintendent of public instruction, told Lucey his department's budget for the next biennium would total $890 million. Of this, he said, better than $807 million would be returned to local school districts to help relieve property taxes. The budget would include $75 million in federal funds channeled to the department.

He recommended that the state assume 20 per cent of the cost of long term debt retirement for local school districts. This, he said, would cost $15 million over the biennium.

He also suggested the establishment of an average mill rate of 17 per $1,000 of valuation for local school districts.

Welfare Costs

Wilbur Schmidt, head of the Department of Health and Social Services, told Lucey that rising welfare costs will make it imperative for the federal government to bear more of the public assistance load. He said the family assistance program helping to deal with the urgent crime problem

Milwaukee County's chief judge — Robert Curlew — said there was a need for more courts in his area. He also suggested the possibility of eliminating jury trials in minimal types of misdemeanor violations, and of cutting back to six-member juries instead of 12.

A spokesman for the Wisconsin Judicial Council recommended establishment of uniform traffic court procedures, a revision of methods used in juvenile courts, and a review of civil and slamm claims case procedures.

Atty. Gen. Robert Warren told Lucey that he was about to improve the second comprehensive plan of the Wisconsin Council on Criminal Justice, which projects a commitment of more than $255 million in federal, state and local funds over the next five years.

A spokesman for the University of Wisconsin and the Medical College of Wisconsin discussed health manpower needs. They said that appreciable increases in enrollment at both schools would have to await completion of new facilities, described as being of prime importance in attracting medical students and keeping them in the state after they become doctors.

Rural Life

The quality of rural life will be the subject of discussion at hearings in Stevens Point Tuesday and Eau Claire the following day.

After that, Lucey said Friday, he will draw on the information gathered at the nine hearings when he gets together with budget analysts to decide where and how he can pare some of the fat off the budget requests, which total a record $2.2 billion.

Lucey said he expected to be kept busy through the holiday period working on the budget, with the actual mechanics of putting it together for submission to the legislature taking the better part of January.

Lucey, a Democrat, will succeed Republican Gov. Warren P. Knowles next month. Faced with what he describes as a fiscal emergency, Lucey has already asked state agency heads to cooperate in an austerity campaign.

Regents Back Reorganization

UW Health Center Okayed

MILWAUKEE — After hearing that the University of Wisconsin Medical Center is "in trouble as is the health profession in the nation," the UW Board of Regents voted Friday to reorganize the facility.

Irving Shain, vice chancellor of the Madison campus and head of a committee that studied the problems of the medical center, told the regents that a serious crisis due to internal management problems needs to be met with a new commitment to the medical center.

The committee recommended that a vice chancellor for health services be appointed to direct a administrative reorganization that would pull all the related health agencies into a renamed University Center for Health Services.

Included in the center would be the medical school, the school of nursing, the school of pharmacy, University Health Service, University Hospitals, State Laboratory of Hygiene and the Wisconsin Psychiatric Institute.

In supporting the recommendations, Regent James Nellen of De Pere, an orthopedic surgeon and member of the committee, called on the university "to respond effectively to all this crisis represents." He also recommended and the regents approved that Chancellor H. Edwin Young of the Madison campus "move with appropriate speed to implement the major recommendations and to assure prompt attention to the advisory recommendations as well."

The committee was formed last June following the resignation of the director of the UW Medical Center.

In his report to the regents, Shain said the committee found that the administrative structure of the center does not "facilitate an effective response to the statewide obligations of the university to the people of Wisconsin."

Part of the internal administrative crisis afflicting the center, the committee said, is the fact that it had been "too long set apart from other priority and budget concerns of the total university, allowed to drift in a state of benign neglect."

State support for the University Hospitals on the Madison campus, he said, "is one of the lowest of any teaching hospital in the country." The low level of support has resulted in "very high charges to patients" among other factors.

"The university administration must obtain financial support at a level which will permit the capital center for health planning to perform its educational function," the committee report said.

The administrative problems the group found include a lack of a clear definition of roles for the director of the center and the dean of the medical school.

The selection of a vice chancellor would help coordinate all the health sciences, the report said. The committee recommended, but the regents were reluctant to emphasize, that the vice chancellor also serve as a special assistant for health services. The regents preferred to await the arrival of the new president before making that order.

In a series of less imperative advisory recommendations, the task force said the dean of the medical school should coordinate academic and research programs. He should be advised by associate deans in clinical sciences, basic sciences and continuing education. The chief of staff of University Hospitals also should be an associate dean of the medical school to coordinate the two programs, the report said.

To expand the service of the health center the committee recommended a board of visitors, including both health professionals not associated with the university and health services consumers.

The regents accepted the report and Nellen's recommendations. They did not, at the Friday meeting, approve the provisions of vice chancellor or any of the other provisions.

In the wake of growing criticism of the procedure and criteria for granting tenure for UW faculty members, the regents also approved the formation of a committee to study tenure criteria.

The committee will include three faculty members, to be named Dec. 21, three administrators, and three regents. The regents, named by President Bernard Ziegler, include Robert Dahlstrom, Manitowish; Charles Gelatt, La Crosse, and Frank Pelisek, Whitefish Bay.

Planning Commission Four Are Appointed To Housing Committee

Appointments to a standing committee on housing were announced Friday by the chairman of Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission.

Henry Allhiser, planning commissioner from Shawano County was named chairman of the committee. Other commissioners appointed were Henry Breiting, Appleton; Hilary Waukau, Neopit, Menominee County and Ronald Abbott, Fremont, Waupaca County.

The housing committee will provide policy guidance and assistance to the housing section of Northeastern's executive staff.

Allhiser is the personnel director of Consolidated Badger Cooperative in Shawano. He has served many years as a supervisor on the Shawano County Board and was originally named to the Northeastern Commission by former governor, Gaylord Nelson. He was appointed by Gov. Warren P. Knowles. Allhiser is chairman of Northeastern's finance committee and the merger committee which meets with representatives of the Fox Valley Council of Governments Jan. 11.

Henry Breiting is a member of the Outagamie County Board's housing authority and was appointed to Northeastern by the County Board in 1968. He is a farmer and a member of the Board's agriculture and conservation committee.

Menominee County commissioner Hilary Waukau is assistant to the president of Menominee Enterprise, Inc. for resource and business development. He is also resident manager of the Visitor Destination Center at Keshena. He has been active in securing federal assistance for housing projects in Menominee County.

The fourth appointee, Ronald Abbott of Fremont was recently appointed to Northeastern by Knowles. He is manager of the Fremont branch of the Appleton State Bank.

Northeastern's housing section works to identify economic needs at all income levels and applies development schemes to these needs, to increase the economic strength of the counties. The commission serves Action is achieved by utilizing federal technical assistance and financing by private developers. The goal of the section is to secure a higher quality of life for the people being served by developing human resources.

More Influence on Officials Rural-Urban Council Seeks 'Muscle'

The Outagamie County Rural-Urban Development Council will try to secure greater muscle by reporting publicly on the fate of its recommendations.

Action taken by officials seeking council assistance will now be reported in public meetings and through news releases. The council previously had not prescribed ways to reveal its recommendations to the public.

The new policy, formulated Friday on a motion of Garry Blomberg, Appleton farm management agent says it must "inform the general public of community problems and action taken by official groups through educational meetings and mass media."

Frank Charlesworth, Appleton, coordinator of public works, had noted that the council has no way to see that its recommendations are carried out. "There's no one to follow up," he said.

Spur to Action

Jerry Starling, Appleton, director of regional planning for the Fox Valley Council of Governments, said plans often are developed but are seldom acted upon. "We could get the ideas out to the public through an education committee."

Joe Kasperek, route 1, Black Creek, council chairman, also backed the measure. "The only action you can get from the elected officials would be if you can exert pressure on them"

The council also approved formation of citizen committees on economic development, environmental quality improvement and quality of living improvement.

The eight-member council steering committee will appoint citizen members to serve on each of the major panels. The trio of panels will then appoint subcommittees to investigate individual community problems.

Members of governmental agencies will serve only as advisers. Dennis Hohfeldt, Greenville, Department of Natural Resources forester, stressed the need for citizens to guide the council. "I'm afraid that if the agency people take the initiative it'll fall short."

Public Housing

Kenneth Theine housing planner for the Fox Valley Council of Governments, told council members income statistics show there may be as many as 12,300 households from Oshkosh to Kaukauna eligible for public housing assistance. He said 18,000 households may be eligible for federal assistance in financing houses. Applicants also may be limited by maximum asset requirements.

Adjusted income statistics cited by Theine showed that about 15 per cent of the households from Oshkosh to Kaukauna had an income of $3,000 or less, 16 per cent had incomes from $3,000 to $6,000 and 33 per cent earned from $6,000 to $10,000. There were nearly 37 per cent of the households drawing incomes more than $10,000.

National income statistics show 16 per cent of all households have incomes of less than $3,000; 18 per cent from $3,000 to $6,000; 26 per cent, $6,000 to $10,000 and $10,000 and higher, 40 per cent.

The statistics indicated the

110 Acres at Appleton

Annexation Is Upheld

Suits challenging Appleton's 1967 annexation of a small area to its south side, including a revenue producing power company substation, were dismissed Friday in a decision handed down at Oshkosh by Circuit Judge William E. Crane.

The ruling came more than a year after the annexation challenge was initiated by the Towns of Harrison, Calumet County, and Menasha, Winnebago County, from which the disputed land was taken.

The annexed parcel of 110 acres included land owned by the City of Appleton, individuals, and by the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. The city annexed the land to its South Side chiefly from Harrison along with a strip of Oneida Street right-of-way in the Town of Menasha.

At stake in the case, besides the principal issue, were tax revenue collected by Appleton since the annexation. Had the towns' challenge been successful, Appleton would have been required to return the taxes it collected since 1967 which, by one estimate, have averaged $30,000 a year.

Revenue Source

A major source of revenue for the city has been the power company's S. Oneida Street substation. A portion of the utility taxes collected by the state have been returned to the city each year.

The towns argued before Crane that Appleton had used improper pressure in promoting the annexation, had acted "arbitrarily (and) capriciously," and had improperly served by certified mail the notice of intent to circulate the annexation petition.

The city of Appleton bought about 48 acres of land from Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Roeland and Mr. and Mrs. John Roeland April 19, 1967, by land contract.

A month later the city published a notice of intent to annex the land and on June 1 the state Department of Resource Development ruled that the proposed annexation was not against the public interest and that the land was either urban in character or could be expected to develop as an urban area in the future.

The owners of about 95 acres of the total annexation package petitioned the city for annexation the next day.

While the towns charged that Appleton had "bought votes" for the annexation by purchasing the Roeland property, Judge Crane found that evidence supporting the charge fell "far short of the burden of proof required to upset" the annexation.

Crane noted, too, that even if the city had bought part of the Roeland farm to aid in its annexation proceedings "there is nothing in the law which would preclude it from doing so."

He concluded that the city acted neither arbitrarily or capriciously and that the city's notice of intent complied with state statutes.

Annexation Law Reform Is Urged

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Municipalities may get the help of the Natural Resources Council of State Agencies in their deadlocked campaign for changes in the state territorial annexation laws to make it easier for them to annex urbanized fringe areas now usually immune from annexation efforts.

A comprehensive report on all phases of the state's water quality problems and program needs approved by the Council says that cities should be encouraged to extend their sewer services to urbanized fringe areas, but acknowledges that cities resist such proposals because they want such territory annexed for all municipal purposes.

To avoid the proliferation of inefficient treatment plants at high and unnecessary costs, the Council report said, the annexation laws should be modified to provide an "equitable" method for municipal attachment of such districts as a means to more efficient disposal and treatment of sewage.

Need Legislation

Legislation similar to that proposed by the Tarr study commission on the improvement of local government should be considered by the legislature, said Harvey Wirth, a state sanitary engineer and chief author of the massive report on water problems and management needs endorsed by the Council.

The Tarr report, largely ignored by the last legislature, proposed to establish a state boundary review commission as a quasi-judicial agency that would decide annexation contests. Under present law, which urban officials have said is virtually unworkable from their point of view, annexations are permitted only with the consent of the inhabitants and the free holders of the territory involved in the proposal.

Flexible Method

The League of Wisconsin Municipalities and other urban interests have campaigned for a more flexible method of urban annexation for years, without substantial results thus far.

The Wirth report noted also that the statute under which several metropolitan sewerage commissions in the state were formed has been invalidated by a decision of the State Supreme Court, and that they are now operating under the authority of emergency adopted by the legislature.

Now it is necessary to consider basic legislation providing a constitutional method of creating or enlarging such districts, the document said. It will be referred to the legislature which will convene in January.
